P R E F A C E.

WHEN a city has the good fortune to be presented with such a deeply interesting collection of local records, as those forming The Jackson Collection; the obligation rests with the citizens to arrange it, so as to give those who wish to consult the records, the greatest possible facilities for doing so; and it is with this object that we have compiled this descriptive catalogue. Our aim has been to describe more particularly those ancient documents in mediæval Latin, French, and English, which present difficulties to many persons interested in local history, while giving a general indication of the contents of the modern and more easily read documents, but readers should note that a great mass of valuable material was transcribed by Joseph Hunter and William Swift, as described at pages 276-288 and pages 305-320, and that these antiquaries enjoyed exceptional facilities for gaining local information. Accordingly this portion of the collection is as valuable, from the student's point of view, as the original deeds and manuscripts.

In describing ancient deeds we have endeavoured to supply a simple explanation of each, employing as far as possible the terms used in the deed itself. Thus the common form of early grant, beginning with the words "dedi concessi et hac mea carta confirmavi" has been construed as meaning that the transfer of land was already complete and that the charter was a confirmation of the grant.

In certain cases it has been thought advisable to give a few words of the original text in brackets, sometimes because the words themselves are curious or unusual; sometimes in order that the reader may find a better rendering than our own; but in all cases our rule has been to quote the words as they stand without any change of tense or case. In the same way we have represented, as faithfully as might be, the actual spelling of names and places, even when, as so frequently happens in ancient records, they appear in divers forms in the same document, or when, as is not unusual, the original scribe may be suspected of error.

It is obvious that in a collection of such wide scope, we could not hope to discuss the manifold topics of interest. Our purpose is served if we have succeeded in showing that within its bounds there is a wide field for many forms of study, and that the antiquary, genealogist, topographer, historian and, not least, the philologist will be amply repaid by making a first-hand acquaintance with The Jackson Collection.

We gladly take this opportunity of expressing our thanks to Dr. Henry Jackson, O.M., Regius Professor of Greek and Fellow of Trinity College, in the University of Cambridge, for his great kindness in writing a Prefatory Note to the Catalogue, which gives an added interest to The Jackson Collection; our thanks are also due to Councillor S. Gardner Harrison, who has undertaken the work of sorting and arranging a mass of newspaper cuttings, of great local interest, forming part of the collection; also to the Chief Librarian and his staff for the many facilities they have provided for us at the Reference Library, whilst our work was in progress; and to our printer we are indebted for much assistance.

In conclusion, we wish to express the hope that other local records may find their way to The Sheffield Room, at the Public Reference Library. In these days, when ancient monuments are protected by Act of Parliament, the least we can do is to see that our ancient records are also placed in safe custody, where they will always be available for those who can make the best use of them. This seems to us a very obvious duty, which the present owes to the future, and in no way can our citizens better discharge this obligation with regard to ancient records relating to Sheffield, than by following the example of Sheffield's distinguished son, the late Mr. Arthur Jackson.

PREFATORY NOTE.

Mr. T. Walter Hall and Mr. A. Hermann Thomas—by whom this catalogue of manuscripts contained in “the Jackson Collection” has been compiled—invite me to write a prefatory note about those who gathered together the several parts of the Collection: and regard for them, gratitude to Mr. Hall and Mr. Thomas, and loyalty to the City of Sheffield, constrain me to undertake the pious task.

The Collection has for its nucleus books and papers accumulated in the course of ninety-five years by three generations of Jacksons: but its most important constituents are certain memoranda of the late Joseph Hunter which my brother Arthur bought at the Phillips sale, and, above all, the very important papers which he purchased from the representatives of the late William Swift.

My grandfather, Henry Jackson, sen., surgeon, of Sheffield, was born at Wentbridge, near Pontefract, 22nd May, 1771, and received his early education at Hatfield near Doncaster. Having been apprenticed or articked to Mr. William Lunn, surgeon, of Sheffield, he continued his medical studies at St. Thomas's Hospital, where he made several important friendships. Thence, in 1793, he proceeded to Edinburgh, where he spent a year. On his return to Sheffield, he established himself in Fargate: but in 1800 he removed to a house in St. James's Row previously occupied by Mr. Brookfield, solicitor. As I shall have to mention this house more than once, it is worth while to note that in 1787 the Vicar of Sheffield gave a ground lease of part of the glebe, upon which a row of three houses was built, stretching from Church Street to St. James's Street, and separated from the west side of St. Peter's Churchyard by a narrow paved walk. These three houses, together with the houses which occupied the frontage between St. James's Street and Campo Lane, were called St. James's Row. On 1st January, 1801, my grandfather married Olivia, daughter of Benjamin Sayle of Wentbridge.

My grandfather appears to have been a skilful and respected general practitioner. Letters in my possession show that Mr. Lunn had an affectionate regard for him, and, when he returned from London and Edinburgh, was glad to have his help. I gather further that my grandfather, though perhaps somewhat masterful, was sociable, genial, and attractive: and a portrait, which is no doubt one of the many pastels drawn by Chantrey in the first decade of the nineteenth century, shows that he was an uncommonly handsome man. There is no indication that he concerned himself with antiquarian pursuits, but it is clear that he liked nice books and good china: and his two "orange jumper" jugs—of which one is now in the Fitzwilliam Museum at Cambridge—suggest that he was interested, not only in the famous Don pottery, but also in the politics of the time. It would seem that, though not an antiquary, Henry Jackson, sen., began the family collection.

Henry and Olivia Jackson had several children: but only two survived infancy—Olivia, who was born 27th December, 1801, and died 17th September, 1870; and Henry, who was born 29th November, 1806, and died 25th June, 1866.

My father, Henry Jackson, jun., surgeon, of Sheffield, received his general education at the Rev. Peter Wright's school in Sheffield, and, later, at Bingley Grammar School, of which Richard Hartley, D.D., of Christ's College, Cambridge—"an excellent classic, a hard-reading man, and of irreproachable character" (Gunning's Reminiscences of Cambridge)—was then head master. The second Henry's medical education began with apprenticeship to his father. In 1828 he proceeded to Dublin that he might study anatomy under James Macartney, and surgery under James W. Cusack. As appears from his letters to my grandfather, my father made excellent use of the great opportunities which the hospitals of Dublin afforded; while occasional references to "sack-em-ups" remind the modern reader that in those days the study of anatomy had a peculiarly grisly side. In 1830 my father left Dublin for London, where he attached himself to St. Bartholomew's Hospital. In the same year he obtained his diplomas at the College of Surgeons and the Apothecaries' Hall. The letters in which he describes the two examinations are detailed, and, if a layman may have an opinion, very interesting.¹

On his way home, my father visited at Cambridge his old friends William Henry Brookfield—Tennyson's "Brooks"—and John Henry Brown, then undergraduates at Trinity College.

Returning to Sheffield, he began practice with my grandfather, and on 10th September, 1832, was elected to the post of Surgeon to the Infirmary, which he held till a few days before his death. My grandfather died 12th November, 1836. On 27th June, 1838, my father married Frances, daughter of James Swettenham.

This is not the place for an estimate of my father's capacity and success as surgeon and medical practitioner. But I may briefly note certain personal characteristics. He was always observant, always ready to take responsibility, always quiet. He had a wonderful gift of sympathy. He was as discreet and reticent as a father confessor. He was the friend of his patients and the confidant of his colleagues. He called himself a Tory, but progress was his joy. He kept himself thoroughly posted up in medical literature, and was eager to avail himself of every new invention and discovery. At first he had doubts about anæsthetics, but they very quickly disappeared. When he died, antiseptic and aseptic methods had not yet established themselves: but I fancy that his use of a solution of nitrate of silver for scalds, burns, and bedsores, saved my life when in childhood I charged into a large saucepan of boiling water. Once, and once only, I went round the Infirmary with him: and, to my great surprise, I found that, in talking to his patients there, he dropped without an effort into the grammar and the vocabulary of old Sheffield. I had long known that he could read "Tom Tredlehoyle" as no one else of my acquaintance could do: but it had not occurred to me that he would use the second person singular as easily as if he had never known the conventional "you" and "your" of modern English. The Infirmary occupied much of his thoughts. I have waited for him there for hours when he had miscalculated the time which his work would require. He was devoted to his profession: and he was sorry when his brother-in-law, Wilson Overend, a brilliant surgeon, gave himself to municipal affairs. Nevertheless, he knew that a professional man should have a hobby or hobbies. He read widely in English literature; in particular, history, biography, and good fiction, were favourite subjects. He had an astonishing knack of discovering important books the moment that they appeared: for example, he knew Thackeray's Second Funeral of Napoleon, Oliver Wendell Holmes's Autocrat of the Breakfast Table, and J. F. McLennan's Primitive Marriage, before they were famous. He was a constant reader of Notes and Queries, and sent to it occasional contributions signed "H.J."¹

Meanwhile, he was keenly interested in local antiquities. An accomplished horseman, he had gained in his youth, and always retained, a curiously exact knowledge of the topography of the district. He collected books printed at Sheffield. He noted additions to Hunter's Hallamshire in an interleaved copy. But it was not for him to do more than collect: he made no serious attempt to record his antiquarian knowledge.

The house in which my father was born, lived, and died, continued to be occupied by my brother Arthur and my mother until 1878, when the prospect of street improvements caused them to remove to a house in Wilkinson Street, now numbered 53. In 1883 the old house in St. James's Row was pulled down, and the narrow paved walk was widened into a street.

My brother, Arthur Jackson, surgeon, of Sheffield, born 21st February, 1844, was educated at the Sheffield Collegiate School and at Cheltenham College. Leaving school at the age of sixteen, he became pupil to my father at the Infirmary and at home. In 1864 he proceeded to St. Bartholomew's Hospital, where he was Surgical Dresser and House Surgeon. Amongst his intimates were Mr. Bowater Vernon, Mr. John Langton, Mr. Butlin (afterwards Sir Henry Butlin), Mr. William Crowfoot, and Mr. George Wilkes. When my father died, 25th June, 1866, my brother had just got his surgical qualification: and he at once began practice in Sheffield; first, as partner of an old family friend, Mr. Jonathan Barber, afterwards, independently. At the Hospital, and later at the Infirmary, he won a reputation as a skilful operator. In his private practice he was a wise and resourceful adviser. For myself, having had in my time grave anxieties, I thankfully remember the help and the comfort which again and again he brought to me. He married, 8th August, 1878, Alice, daughter of our old and kind friend, Bernard Wake, of Abbeyfield. He died, after a short illness, 29th December, 1895.

In more ways than one my brother differed from my father. My father was reticent, my brother was outspoken. My father was cautious, my brother was impetuous. While my father avoided municipal activity, thinking that it would interfere with his professional duties, my brother, who had more leisure, took a prominent part in the affairs of the City. It had been my earnest hope that he would one day sit in the House of Commons for one of the divisions of Sheffield. In imperial politics he was a convinced Tory, but he would never have been a slavish partisan. My belief had been that he would take for his speciality sanitary reform, and that his honesty, fearlessness, and knowledge, would make him a power in that branch of legislation. It was however one of his ambitions, perhaps his principal ambition, to write about "our fathers that begat us," and about the institutions and the history of the City which he loved: and I think that, in his additions to the collection which he inherited, he had this end always in view. There never was a more loyal son of Sheffield.

Amongst our occasional visitors in St. James's Row, one of the most distinguished was Joseph Hunter, "the Historian of Hallamshire." Born 6th of February, 1783, at Sheffield, he was Presbyterian Minister at Bath from 1809 to 1833. From 1833 to 1838 he was Sub-Commissioner of Public Records. In 1838, on the reconstruction of the Record Service, he was made Assistant Keeper of the First Class. He died in London, 9th May, 1861. These bald facts I derive from the Dictionary of National Biography. It would be impertinent in me to praise Hunter's achievements in history, biography, genealogy, topography. But I have a certain familiarity with the "History of Hallamshire," and I never refer to it without gratefully admiring his wide knowledge, his exact scholarship, his transparent candour, and his unaffected, vigorous, discourse.

On 22nd March, 1895, certain of Hunter's papers, which had become the property of Sir Thomas Phillipps, were sold by Messrs. Sotheby, Wilkinson & Hodge. The most important of them were bought by the Sheffield Free Library: but my brother commissioned the Librarian, Mr. Samuel Smith, to buy for him certain other lots which the Library did not at that time care to acquire. One of these purchases, and one only, is not included in our gift to the City. There were three volumes described as "The Thoughts of Joseph Hunter." When my brother died, his executors gave these volumes to Hunter's son, Henry Julian Hunter, M.D., who, in his earlier days, had been a frequent visitor at the house in St. James's Row, and sympathized with my father and my brother both in their medical and in their antiquarian interests. The jottings of "The Thoughts" were intimate, and we should not have thought ourselves justified in making them public property.

Mr. William Swift, our next door neighbour in St. James's Row, was another of my father's antiquarian allies. Born 13th December, 1818, near Chesterfield, Swift began life as clerk in the office of a Chesterfield lawyer; but at the age of eighteen entered the service of the late Mr. John Brown, solicitor, of St. James's Row. Mr. Brown, who was not only a solicitor but also distributor of stamps, put the distribution into Swift's hands. Major Richard Fawkes, who succeeded Mr. Brown as distributor of stamps, retained Swift as his representative; and, when Swift died, 10th December, 1874, testified his "esteem for long and self-sacrificing service in the stamp office of this Town" by a tablet placed in the Parish Church.

I have little of my own to say about the shy, modest, simple-minded scholar, whose premises I sometimes invaded in pursuit of an errant cricket ball. Happily, Mr. R. E. Leader, in his Reminiscences of Old Sheffield, transcribes from the Independent an eloquent and affectionate appreciation, and I hope that he will forgive me for reproducing the greater part of it.

"It was not his social position that gave our late friend a name and a place in the annals of Sheffield; nor was it even the kindly good nature with which he answered all inquiries; nor the humble simplicity and piety of his private life ; but his marvellous industry and care as a genealogical and topographical collector. A career less eventful than his could scarcely be imagined. He lived in a house adjoining his office, and when business was over he much too rarely went out for fresh air and exercise. Far into the night he would pore over manuscripts, sometimes copying old parish registers, sometimes making abstracts or copies of documents that had been lent to him, or entering up his volumes of pedigrees. His mind was ever intent on the acquisition of genealogical facts, and whether they came under his notice in written papers, or in conversation, he carefully noted them, and systematically stored them away in the volumes to which they belonged. The desire to be accurate was with him a passion. He could not endure a false date, and smiled when he observed the vanity that, in pedigrees, could not call a spade a spade, but turned a cutler, a grinder, or something humbler, into a gentleman. During the thirty-eight years he lived in Sheffield he had been carefully accumulating fact upon fact, and there is probably not a family in the town, save the most recent importations, of whom he had not a more or less complete account. He was the Old Mortality of Sheffield, and carefully copied the gravestones in the church and chapel yards. The parish registers were more familiar to him than to the parish clerk. He knew the genealogical value of wills and deeds, and had made himself master of those old handwritings under which our forefathers have shrouded so much valuable information. Not having enjoyed the advantage of a classical education, he yet so far mastered the difficulties of Latin and Norman French as to be able to translate intelligibly such mediæval documents as were couched in those languages ; and of late years, so vast was the fund of information which he possessed, that he was able at once to appreciate the value of new facts that might come under his notice, and to see meanings in entries and items that to an ordinary observer appeared to have no special significance. For years past he has been the oracle to which all inquirers into Sheffield history resorted. The antiquarian student perpetually made use of his kindly advice and counsel ; the lawyers flocked to him regularly when any question arose affecting family history ; and to one and all he was alike ready to tell what he knew, and in return to accept any crumbs of information his visitors might be able to impart. In this way his store of facts grew. Persons who had learned the value of his information were glad to be able to offer him some return in kind, when anything came under their notice. His fame as a collector of information spread, and from far and near matters found their way into his hands that would not have been entrusted to one less discreet. He was scrupulous in preserving and returning everything that was lent to him ; and exercised a marvellous reticence in dealing with subjects that might have given pain to families or individuals. He never spoke unkindly, and, though his mind was the depository of more family secrets than that of any man in Sheffield, we never heard of an instance where an unfair or unkind use had been made of what he knew. Like many great collectors of information, Mr. Swift seemed to lack the aptitude for collating, arranging, and editing his materials. He shrank from the task of composition, fancying, very mistakenly, that he could not compose ; and yet we have had in our hands fragments of his that would have been no discredit to so lucid and interesting a writer as the late Joseph Hunter. Our own columns,' [it is the Independent from which I am quoting] 'have not unfrequently contained most valuable scraps from his pen; but he would more frequently give his information verbally, and leave others to clothe it in set words. Under the signature 'St.,' he sometimes contributed to Notes and Queries. Several papers of his have appeared in the Reliquary, and he has also enriched the Chesterfield newspapers from the stores of his Derbyshire lore; but we never heard of his publishing a book, nor ever knew a man more capable of doing so. In connexion with the inquiries arising out of the bequest to the town of the property of the late Samuel Bailey, Mr. Swift rendered great service; and the Rev. Dr. Gatty, in his preface to the new edition of Hunter's Hallamshire, thus acknowledges his obligations:—'The services of Mr. William Swift, well known for his genealogical studies, experience, and accuracy, as well as for his accumulated stores of information relating to the various properties of the neighbourhood, have been especially great throughout the latter part of the work, and deserve my warmest appreciation. He has extended the pedigrees with a careful hand, and by an old deed or memorandum has often contributed what the antiquarian will value.' Among his friends might be mentioned every name of note in Sheffield; but it is enough to say that he was on intimate terms with Joseph Hunter, James Montgomery, John Holland, Samuel Mitchell, and Henry Jackson; without particularising those who have lived to feel his loss. When the late Samuel Mitchell's papers had to be arranged for the British Museum, Mr. Swift was selected to perform the task, and very ably he discharged it. He had a pure and simple mind, inexpensive tastes and habits, and if there was a thing he erred in, it was in taking too little care of his own health.'"¹

Mr. R. E. Leader adds an in memoriam written by Dr. Gatty, and I am tempted to quote it: but already I have quoted too much, and I content myself with the citation of a single expressive sentence; "Mr. Swift was a true and worthy disciple of Hunter." So say I.

Knowing the importance of Swift's papers, my brother purchased them from the family. I think that he hoped to arrange them himself: but, in any case, with him they were in safe custody.

Another element in the Collection is a transcript of the sepulchral inscriptions in the several graveyards of the City, made at my brother's cost by Mr. William J. J. Glassby. In 1896, Mr. Glassby published a book called The Old Church-Yards of Sheffield, with a brief selection of quaint epitaphs therein, which was based upon this transcript.

In my brother's will there is a clause which seems to me so characteristic and so significant that I quote it in full:

"I bequeath all the papers which belonged to my late father and all my private papers and books (including the Swift papers and books) of all kinds both medical and general (except the books herein before bequeathed to my said wife) to my said wife and my said brother Henry, but my said wife to take such of them as she likes to select, and the remainder to be disposed of as they shall think fit. And I specially urge and request my said wife and my said brother Henry not to allow the Swift or any other of my private papers to become public property without most careful supervision for fear of hurting the feelings of persons or families whose names may be mentioned in them."

It is easy to see that my brother, whilst he gave his executors the widest possible discretion, subject only to one wise limitation, wished his collections to become public property: and my sister-in-law and I desired to give effect to his wish as soon as arrangements could be made for their safe-keeping and their accessibility. But we were not competent ourselves to deal with so great and so miscellaneous a mass of documents: and, though Mr. J. D. Leader did us the great kindness of inspecting and sorting the Swift papers, we did not know of anyone who would undertake the preparation of a complete inventory. This being so, we deferred the presentation of the papers which we conceived ourselves to hold in trust for the City. But in 1912 the appearance of Mr. Walter Hall's Catalogue of the Charters, Deeds and Manuscripts in the Public Reference Library at Sheffield changed the situation. It now became clear that there were those in Sheffield who were interested in its history, and were prepared to spend time and trouble upon its records.

It was a very real pleasure to my sister-in-law and myself when the City accepted "the Jackson Collection." It is our hope that the example of collecting which my brother Arthur has set will find many imitators, and that, when papers thus gathered together come into the possession of the City, there will always be loyal and learned citizens, such as Mr. T. Walter Hall and Mr. A. Hermann Thomas, to arrange and catalogue them.

ADDENDA.

SINCE the catalogue was printed, about fifty additional deeds, forming part of the collection, have come to hand; one is a 13th century charter relating to lands at Wath and Swinton co York; others, of much later dates, relate to Sheffield and North-East Derbyshire. They have been placed together, in a box labelled "Uncatalogued Deeds," and can be examined at the Public Reference Library.

The Collection contains fifty-one lantern slides of Old Sheffield.

SIX of the marginal reference numbers have been duplicated by mistake. They are:—

Number 836, pages 117 and 2.

„ 837, „ 114 „ 2.

„ 838, „ 120 „ 3.

„ 839, „ 118 „ 8.

„ 840, „ 118 „ 96.

„ 841, „ 117 „ 6.

When the number occurs at a page given in the middle column, it is an original deed; but when it occurs in the right hand column it is a photograph, and is so described in the catalogue.

Number 638 page 83 should bear date 1695, instead of 1659.

Number 724 page 146 should be in the Yorkshire section. Gleadless is on the county boundary.

Number 835 page 303 should be 835a.

Number 900 (9) page 13 should be 900 (90).

ANCIENT CHARTERS AND DEEDS.

13th century. Photograph of a Charter (Lat.) confirming a grant from Thomas son of Thomas de Furniwallle to Thomas son of Roger de Haldwrth his heirs and assignes, excepting men of religion (clerics) and Jews, of an oxgang and a half of land with appurtenances and buildings thereon in the township and territory of Haldwrth, which the aforesaid Thomas had held of the grantor in "hastilar" service, lying between the wood called Lockeslay on the east and the brook called Le Sputesyke on the west; and between the water called Stene on the south and the moor called Onesmor on the north, in consideration of a sum of money paid to the grantor and a yearly rent of twelve shillings of silver payable at the Feast of the Assumption of the Blessed Mary Virgin and at the Feast of the Annunciation of the same for all services and demands, except forinsec services, saving to the grantor all improvements in the grantor's waste within the boundaries of Hallumsyre, saving also two suits at the grantor's court at Shefeud, to wit, at the first courts after Easter and the Feast of Saint Michael, on the understanding that the grantee should grind his corn at any one of the grantor's mills within Hallumsyre and nowhere else. Witnesses: John de Wyntewrth then steward, Thomas de Furneus, Elyas de Midhop, John del Wyteley, Richard Moriz of Wyrhale, Nicholas Langus, Richard Rynellus, William del Leyston, Thomas de Morwd. Notes: from the photograph it appears that the charter was engrossed on vellum and had a pendent seal bearing the arms of Furnivall. Probably Thomas Furnivall the second, who died before 1279, was the grantor. Thomas de Ferneus appeared also as a witness of "Furnivall's Charter." There are four mounted prints of this photograph in the collection.

13th century. Photograph of a Charter (Lat.), confirming a grant from Thomas de Furniville son of Thomas de Furniville to Thomas son of Ralph "sub monte," his heirs and assigns, excepting men of religion (clerics) and Jews, of half an oxgang of land with appurtenances and buildings, which Ralph de Pillay once held to farm from Robert de Haldewrth, lying in width between the field called Bilbeleye towards the south, and the moor towards the north; and in length between the wood called Lockeslay towards the east, and Le Bentelane towards the west, saving to the grantor every manner of advantage and improvement of all his waste in all places within Hallumshire, in consideration of a yearly rent of two shillings of silver payable at the Feast of the Annunciation of the Blessed Mary Virgin and at the Assumption of the same by equal portions, for all services and demands, except two suits of court at Shefeuld, to wit, at the first courts after Easter and the Feast of Saint Michael, also excepting forinsec service of the lord King as much as pertained to the land, and on the understanding that the aforesaid Thomas son of Ralph and his assigns should grind all corn growing on the said land in one of the grantor's mills for the multure thereof, within the boundaries of Hallumshire and nowhere else. For this grant the grantee paid a certain sum of money "in gersuma." Witnesses: John del Marteleye (?), John his son, Robert de Rous, Richard Moriz, Nicholas de Langus, Richard Rinellus. Notes: from the photograph it appears that the charter was engrossed on vellum and had a pendent seal bearing the arms of Furnivall. Probably Thomas Furnivall the second, who died before 1279, was the grantor. There are four mounted prints of this photograph in the collection. The Oxford Dictionary gives gersum and variants as meaning a premium or fine paid to a feudal superior on entering upon a holding.

13th century. Photograph of a Charter (Lat.) from John le Scrob to Henry son of William de Wodetorpe, of a toft with buildings thereon, a croft, and an oxgang of land with appurtenances in le Gledeleys in the parish of Handeswrth, which were formerly in the tenure of Agnes the wife of Roger, in consideration of a yearly rent of five shillings, payable at Pentecost and the Feast of Saint Martin, and on the understanding that the grantee should grind his corn, grown on the said land, at the grantor's mill of Wodehus, and do as much work in the making of the dam of the said mill as was charged upon the oxgang. The grantee should also do one suit of court yearly at the grantor's court of Bramelay, to wit, at the first court after the Feast of Saint Martin. A certain sum of money was paid "in gersumma" for the grant. Witnesses: Hugh son of Enma of Wodehus, William de Mora, William de Darnale, John de Capella, Robert de Balifeld, William de Hacuntorpe, John de Markam. Notes: from the photograph it appears that the charter was engrossed on vellum and had no seal when the photograph was taken.

13th century. Photograph of a Charter (Lat.) confirming a grant from Thomas de Furnivale son of Thomas de Furnivale, to Gilbert Smith (Faber), of an oxgang of land in Bernes formerly in the tenure of Roger son of Gervase, and of four acres of land in the territory of Chapel (Chapelton), abutting at the one end upon Bakeburne and at the other upon the Halleflatts of Colley (Cowley), with a toft adjacent in Chapel lying between the toft of Galien (Galienus) and the toft of Geoffrey de Lund, also a plot of land in Granenhou lying in width between Therebroc and Coldewell, and extending in length from the land of Thomas de Bernes to the land of Roger de Husel, and six acres of land upon Swethene and in Eduskerre and half an acre (sic), with all appurtenances, in consideration of a yearly rent of twenty-two shillings sterling, payable at the Nativity of the Blessed Mary and at the Annunciation of the Blessed Mary, for all secular services, demands, and suits of court and mill. A certain sum of money was paid for the grant. Witnesses: William de Furnivale, Robert de Munteny, Richard de Tankerle, Ralph de Ecclesalle clerk, Robert de Neuton, Elias de Middehope, Thomas de Bernes. Notes: from the photograph it appears that the charter was engrossed on vellum and had no seal when the photograph was taken. For probable date see number 841.

Late 12th or early 13th century. Charter (Lat.) confirming a grant in frankalmoign from Adam de Sancta Maria to the church of Saint Mary of Romaris (Rawmarsh), a tithe of the pasturage of his wood of Romaris, and a tithe of the receipts from sales of wood, payable in the octave of Saint Martin. Witnesses: Sir Richard abbot of Wellebec, brother William prior of the same, brother Roger de Hocton, brother Matthew and brother Warin canons of the same, master Thomas de Lise (?), William de Rosington deacon, William de Queren, Richard chaplain of Rawmaris, Robert de Newark, Adam de Halles, Walter Francis. Notes: Adam de Sancta Maria was the eldest son of Paganus or Payn de Sancta Maria who is mentioned in the "Liber Niger" and whose date was circa 1162-5. Probably this charter lay about halfway between that date and 1239-1240 when Adam's daughters Sibill and Isolda were at variance with William de Lichefelde. As regards entries 900 (175) to 900 (178) a note at the foot of p. 175 runs:—"These fower deeds I had of Mr. Goodwin, parson of Rawmarshe, who said he had by vertue thereof taken great tymber & other wood in the common of Rawmarshe, during all his tyme, for the Repaire of his house of the Chancell, for fences & for fyer; 2 tres 30 yeares agoe worth iii l, 5 tres 12 yeares agoe, and 2 trees 5 yeares ago, he said that Saint Maries were chiefe lords of the whole lor^{pp}: before it was divided into three, w^{ch} he said came by 3 systers coheirs, one of w^{ch} tooke a Religious house & gave her parte to Southwell. He said he had the opinion of Baron Saville touching these deeds, w^{ch} was y^t the deeds were strong & good, & that if any division or inclosure were made, he might have his parte sett out to be inclosed, and bid him take everie yeare some wood. He said he had shewed these deeds to Sir Godfrey ffoulchiam, to Sir ffr. ffoulch's mother to my lo: Darcy and others who all allowed of them. James Danby." See number 900.

900 (177) 1239 Wednesday after the Feast of Saint Martin (November 11th). Covenant (Lat.), dated at the church of Roderham (Rotherham), between William rector of the church of Rawmaris and Sibill de Sancta Maria; after reciting that an action was pending between the two parties with regard to common of pasture and reasonable estovers claimed by the former in the woods of the latter, the document states that Sibill agreed to give seisin to William of the above by his sacristan (?) Robert de Querneby, and that the parties agreed to submit to the Justices, as soon as they should reach Nottingham, questions as to the amount of damages suffered by William. Robert de Ripers and Robert de Stanford were sureties for William, and the abbot of Roche and Thomas de Bellew for Sibill de Sancta Maria. Witnesses: Henry vicar of Roderham, William de Coddwicke (Toddwicke?) and Paulinus the King's bailiffs, Robert Gellaris (cellarius, cellarer?) of Roche, William of Roche, Ralph the seneschal, Thomas de Bellew (de Bella Aqua). Notes: see number 900.

900 (176) (1240-1) in the octave of the Purification of the Blessed Mary (February 2nd), in the 25th year of Henry III, Final Concord (Lat.) between master William de Lichfeild parson of the church of Rawmarsh (de Rubio (sic) Marisco) plaintiff and Adam de Ridwal and Isolda his wife by her attorney Henry de Ridewar (sic) defendants, whereby the latter granted to the former common of pasture for all animals, estovers for burning and housbote and haybote in the woods of Rawmarshe by view of their foresters. Notes: Isolda was the daughter of Adam de Saint Mary and sister of Sibyll, both being coheiresses of the manor of Rawmarsh. See numbers 900 and 900 (175).

900 (175) (1240?) 13th century. Covenant (Lat.) between master William de Lichefeild parson of the church of Rawmarsh (de Rubio Marisco) plaintiff, and Sibill de Sancta Maria defendant, concerning common of pasture and reasonable estovers in all the woods of the same Sibill in Rawmarshe, in accordance with which covenant the latter granted to William, and his successors in the church of Rawmarsh, common of pasture for all animals, and reasonable estovers, for (sic) housbote and haybote and for burning, from the woods by view of the foresters of the said Sybill. Witnesses: the lord abbot of Roche, Robert de Haya, Thomas de Bellew (de Bella Aqua) William de Wydinton, Nicholas de Deyvill, William de Sutton, Robert de Nottingham, Robert de Ruper, William de London. Notes: see number, 900. Sibill of Saint Mary was daughter of Adam of Saint Mary, and wife of Jordan de Reneville. Of her two daughters, Margaret married Thomas Mounteney and Alice, Thomas de Bella Aqua. In the "Testa de Neville" she appears as holding a third part of Rawmarsh. See Hunter's "South Yorkshire" ii. 45-50. At the head of this present entry appears "November 1614, Coppies of Certaine deeds made to the parsons of Rawmarshe touching there priviledge of Common and wood in the Woods and Common of Rawmarsh the like priviledges are granted to Kilnhirst." As similar documents relating to Isolda sister of Sybill, and Sybill herself are dated 1240-1 and 1239, the date 1216 given at the side of the entry, though possible, seems rather early. See numbers 900 (176) and 900 (177). This deed seems to follow 900 (177), and to be the agreement there referred to.

900 (75) Circa 1265. Release and Quit Claim (Lat.) from Thomas, son of Hugh Ferthinge of Kilnhurst, Matilda his mother, Matilda his sister and Robert the latter's husband, to William son of Sir William de Thornhill, of a toft in Kilnhurst with appurtenances, which Hugh Ferthinge bought of Ralph son of William de Kilnhurst. Witnesses: Richarde Flyncham, Roger de Berthe, Richard de Brerethusyl, Roger de Swynesheved. Notes: see numbers 900, and 900 (111), for Richard de Brerethusyl. Sir William de Thornhill appears in a deed circa Henry III, formerly or now in the possession of the Wilson family of Broomhead.

900 (111) 1265 the Feast of Saint Lucia Virgin (December 13th). Charter (Lat.), dated at Wathe, confirming a grant from Thomas de Ecclesfeild to Robert de Rodys of an acre of land in the field called Turnshawfeild, three perches thereof lying between the lands of William de Swinton and John de Caldelowe and abutting on Eldberne and Felothill, the fourth perch lying between the lands of Roger Carpenter and William de Swinton, and abutting upon Eldberne and Pelothill (sic), in consideration of a sum of money paid down, and a yearly rent of a rose. Witnesses: Sir John de Brampton chaplain, Robert Wilgin, William de Swinton, Thomas de Caldlowe, John Lesurays of Brampton, Simon Brune, John de Schiris of Methelton, Richard de Brerethwisill, Adam de Abde, Geoffrey the clerk. Notes: see number 900, and also see C. M. Watson's "British Weights and Measures." Statute for measuring land, prior to Edward III: "40 perches in length and 4 perches in breadth make one acre." The three perches and fourth perch above referred to were evidently strips of a quarter of an acre, forty perches in length and one perch in breadth.

1267 the Nativity of the Blessed Mary (September 8th), in the 51st year of Henry III. Photograph of a Charter (Lat.), dated at Ecclesifeld, confirming a grant from Gilbert Smith (Faber) of Chapel (Chapelton) to Thomas de Bernes clerk son of Henry of the same, for eight marks of silver, of half an oxgang with a certain small croft and all the appurtenances in le Swithenis, which was bought of Sir Thomas de Furnivale, as fenced in on all sides by ditches and hedges, lying in breadth between le Swithenis and the aldergrove of Thomas de Bernes, extending in length to land of Henry son of Thomas de Bernes towards the west, and the Hargap towards the east, to hold of the grantor and his heirs to the said Thomas de Bernes and his heirs and to whomsoever he wished to assign etc the same, except to religious men (clerics) and Jews, in fee and inheritance, with all commons, pastures, liberties, easements and appurtenances belonging to the same land, paying annually to the grantor and his heirs three half-pennies of silver, at the Assumption of the blessed Mary, for all secular services, suit of mill and suit of court to the said land appertaining. Witnesses: Sir Robert de Munteney, Sir Ralph de Ecclesalle, Sir Ralph de Wrtley, Elias de Midhope, Adam de Waddeslay, Adam de Bukeshertre, William de Resseville, Adam Wood (de Bosco), Ralph de Actone then steward to Sir Thomas de Furnivale, John son of Ralph de Bernes, Adam Blount (de Blundo), Roger de Hosgerthorpe. Notes: from the photograph it appears that the charter was engrossed on vellum and had no seal when the photograph was taken. There are two mounted prints of this photograph in the collection.

902 (lxxviii) 14th century. Portion of a Charter (Lat.), undated, confirming a grant from Richard, son of Hugh le Butteler to William son of Ragenild de Steristhorp (Streethorpe), of two oxgangs of land with appurtenances in Sterysthorp (sic), which William held from Hugh his father, together with a toft, lying between the land of John, son of Goodefrid and the land of William Wood (de Bosco) . . . Notes: see number 902.

902 (lxxvii) 14th century. Charter (Lat.), undated, confirming a grant of a life estate from Richard le Butteler of Sandale to John and Richard his sons, in a tenement with appurtenances, bought from Avice Wood (de Bosco) in Steristhorpe (Streethorpe), also in the site of the windmill and half the windmill in Sandale with free ingress and egress, with all the appurtenances in Steristhorpe, liberties, lordships, and easements in the meadows and pastures, woods, and turbaries, with remainder to the survivor, in consideration of a pair of gloves or 1d yearly rent. Witnesses: Alexander Cos, Robert Petipas, Peter of Hamuth, Robert of the same, Thomas son of Symon of Barneby, Thomas Hall (de aula) of the same, Alan of Trumflet, William de Franceis of the same, Adam Bosse of Steristhorpe, Hugh de Franceis of Sandale, Geoffrey Atchurch (ad ecclesiam) of the same, Richard Bywater or Atwell (juxta aquam). Notes : see numbers 902 and 902 (lxxvi).

- 900 (79) (1304-5) Monday in the Feast of Saint Peter in Cathedra (February 22nd), in the 33rd year of Edward I. Charter (Lat.), dated at Raumarsh, confirming a grant from John de Wympton and Alice his wife to William de Raumarsh clerk, and Ellen (Elena) his wife, of a messuage and land in Raumarsh (sic) inherited on the death of John son of Thomas de Wetecroft, in consideration of a yearly rent for eleven years of one rose at rose-time, and afterwards of ten shillings yearly for ever. Witnesses : Stephen de Bellew (de Bella Aqua), William de Wentworthe Woodhuses, William Clarell, William de Mondesder, William de Hestleye, Yvo de Kilnhurst. Notes : see number 900.
- 900 (85) (1305 ?) Charter (Lat.) confirming a grant from John de Wimpton and Alice his wife to William son of Hugh de Raumershe clerk, and Ellen his wife of a messuage toft and croft and an acre of land with appurtenances on the Oldbrekkes, inherited on the death of John son of Thomas de Wetecroft. Witnesses : Sir Robert de Wyten then rector of the church of Raumarsh, William Clarell lord of Aldwarke, Thomas Barbot, William de Mondesder, William de Hestleye, Yvo de Kilnhurst, Hugh del Hill of the same, William le Keu, Thomas Long of Raumarsh. Notes : see numbers 900 and 900 (79). This is evidently a different deed of feoffment, though the lands mentioned appear to be the same as 900 (79) above. William de Hestley, William de Mondesder, Yvo de Kilnhurst and William Clarell appear as witnesses to both documents.
- 900 (99) 1306 Saturday before the Feast of the Nativity of Saint John the Baptist (June 24th), in the 34th year of Edward I. Letter of Attorney (Lat.), dated at Southleverton, from Alice relict (sic) of John de Wimpton appointing the said John her husband, to deliver seisin to William son of Hugh de Raumarsh and Ellen his wife of a messuage, toft, croft, and an acre with appurtenances in Raumarsh. Notes : see number 900, 900 (79), and 900 (85) above.
- 900 (76) 1306 Monday after the Feast of the Apostles Peter and Paul (June 29th). Release and Quit Claim (Lat.), dated at Romares (Rawmarsh), from John le Culpe and Elizabeth his wife, to Hugh son of John de Kilnhurst and Margery his wife, of any claim for dowry belonging to the above Elizabeth, relict of William de Happlethorp, in a messuage and oxgang of land with appurtenances in Kilnhurst, which Hugh and Margaret bought of the late William de Happletorpe (sic). Witnesses : Sir Robert parson of 1553-4 ? (a) Petition (Engl.) of Rychard Banaster to Stephyn, "Bysshop of Wynchester" (Stephen Gardiner Lord Chancellor), recites that Richard Banaster father of the above acquired a lease from the abbot and convent of Kyrkestall of the tithes of the parsonage of Gylkyrke and Barnoleswyke, and of the mill of Barnoleswyke, and of the tithe corn from James Dylworthe's tenement, excepting the tithe corn of Cots, and also another lease of the offices of "Receyvor and Baylyff" of manors etc in Bolande and Cotes, and of an annuity of £3, all of which descended to the petitioner and his brother Thomas Banaster, except the tithes of Brokden. Since the death of Thomas Banaster, the two leases had come into the possession of William Lyster esquire, through Brygytt, widow of Thomas Banaster, and she and her second husband had seized the property. Wherefore the petitioner craved a royal commission from the Court of Chancery appointing a committee of enquiry. Vellum: one skin 19×13 . The deed is undated, but is probably of the latter end of 1553. (b) 1553(-4) February 11th, in the 1st year of Mary. The Queen's Writ (Lat.), attached to the above, ordering Edmund Eltofts, Peter Skarborough, and Thomas Mawde esquires, to enquire into the matter and return their finding, together with the writ to chancery at Easter. Signed Adams. Vellum: one skin 13×3. (c) John Caley's transcriptions of the above. Paper: 3 sheets of folio.

- 817 1568 July 2nd, in the 10th year of Elizabeth. (a) Letters Patent (Lat.) granting a lease from Queen Elisabeth to Allen Banaster, who had surrendered two leases; (1) 4th October 1526 from William, abbot of Kyrkstall, of the tithes of grain in Barlewike, Salterford, le Hall Demeanes, and the tithes of Brokeden late in the tenure of Richard Banaster on a 50 years lease; (2) 4th February 1537-8 from John, abbot of Kyrkstall, to Richard Bannester of Brokeden, gentleman, of tithes of wool, lambs etc and tithes of the mill, tithes of corn of James Dylworth's house with all other tithes belonging to the monastery within the rectory of Gilkirke or Barnoleswyke (sic), except the tithes mentioned above and the tithes of grain of Cotes. The present document grants a lease for 21 years of all the above tithes of grain of Barlewick, Salterford and of the manor of Barnolt, called the Hall Demeanes etc, together with the tithes of sheaves in the township of Coates, formerly belonging to the monastery etc at a rent of £11 3s 4d; and also in consideration of paying the salary of £4 13s 4d to the curate of Gilkyrke, whom the lessee was to have the right of presenting. Enrolled 28th October by the Queen's auditor, Anthony Rone. Endorsed, Buggyn. Vellum: one skin 26 × 13½, seal missing. (b) Transcription of the above by John Caley. (c) Abstract of the same.

- 820 1584 July 27th, in the 26th year of Elizabeth. Indenture of Bargain and Sale (Engl.) from Edward Braddyll of Whalley, in the county of Lancaster esquire, to Thomas Walmysley, sergeant-at-law, recites that Thomas Crompton and John Morley of London gentlemen sold to Sergeant Walysley (by the name of Thomas Walmysley of Dunkenhalth in the county of Lancaster esquire) and to Edward Braddyll, as witnessed by a tripartite indenture May 14th 20 Elizabeth, enrolled in the Court of Chancery, the rectory and church of Gylkirke with appurtenances, formerly belonging to the late monastery of Kirkstall; together with the tithes in Barlewick alias Barnolswicke, in Salterforde alias Salterforthe, in the manor of Barnolf called "the hall demeanes" and in Brugden alias Brockden, late in the tenure of Richard Banester; the tithes of wool, mill, etc late in the tenure of James Dillworth; the tithes of the rectory of Gylkirke late in the tenure of Richard Banester, and the tithes of the township of Cootes, for £11 3s 4d paid yearly to the crown and £4 13s 4d to the curate of the church. By this indenture Edward Braddyll sold to Sergeante (sic) Walmysley for £250 his moiety of the above, and bound himself, his wife Anne, and his son John Braddill (sic) to warrant the title. Vellum : one skin 23 × 16, seal missing.

(1558) May 10th, in the 4th and 5th years of Philip and Mary. (a) Elizabethan or Jacobean copy of a Decree (Engl.) made in the Duchy Court of Lancaster as to right of common on Barnoldswick Moor, claimed by the inhabitants of Coats. The document recites that a decree was made in the Court of the Duchy at the term of Saint Hilary 2 and 3 Philip and Mary, whereby the tenants of Barnoldswick were to keep the parcels of land previously enclosed by them viz. Brokden Edge, Greenthornes lying on the Wetes, and Brumnehough which extended from a tenement in the occupation of Robert Dillworth's wife through Haulsted Fielde to the New Diche of Salterford; the tenants of Coats were to have forty acres of pasture and moss, and the rest was to belong to the tenants of Barnoldswick. This decree at the instance of John Hartley, Margaret his wife, Richard Hartley, John Halsted, William Halsted, and Richard Woodroffe, was exemplified and sealed with the Duchy Seal. (b) Transcription of the above by John Caley.

1543-1546 probably Michaelmas. Extracts (Lat.) from the ministers' or bailiffs' accounts of the dissolved abbey of Kirkstall in the Augmentation Office, made by John Caley in 1795. (a) An account of Richard Banester, collector of the rent and farmer, relating to Bollande, Cotes, Ereby and Remyngton, 1543-4. Another account of Thomas Banaster, deputy of Richard Banester (sic), for Bolland, Cootes, Ereby and Remington, 1545. Another account of Thomas Banaster etc relating to Coots in Craven, from which it appears that a messuage was granted to Arthur Darcy by letters patent 3rd August, 1545, by the service of one twentieth of a knight's fee, and that the rest of Coots was granted to William Ramsden by letters patent 15th October 1545 by the service of one twentieth of a knight's fee 15+6. (b) An account of Richard Banester relating to the tithes of the rectory of Gilkirke, Coots, Barnolswick, Salterforth, the Hall Demeanes of Barnolf, Brogden, and the tenement of James Dillesworth, and of the salary paid to Robert Holdale, chaplain of Gilkirk. (c) Note on the above.

1614-15 Case (Engl.) for counsel to advise with opinion at foot, of Sir Richard Hutton (then sergeant at law) in 1614 and of Sir Humfray Davenport (then barrister) 25th July 1615. The cases refer to the manor or lordship of Barnoldswicke, and a parcel of that manor called Barnoldswicke Coates. This manor was formerly in the possession of Kirkstall Abbey and afterwards of the Crown, the parcel being sold, and later coming into the possession of Jo Halst, Geo Halst, La Halst and John Hart steward, holders of the unexpired leases and the reversion of them, while the rest was attached to the Duchy of Lancaster. Legal opinion was asked as to whether the freeholders and their tenants in Barnoldswicke Coates owed suit of service in the Manor Court, and tithes. A note is added to the effect that the tithes of Gillkirk parish alias Barnoldswick were granted to Edward Earl of Lincoln, 24th February 20 Elizabeth in free socage of the manor of East Greenwich, in chief to Arthur Darcey and in free socage to Richard Ramsden. Paper: three sheets of folio.

DERBYSHIRE.

- 811 Probably 13th century. Seventeenth century copy of a Quit Claim (Lat.) from Adam Grideling lord of Witwell to Alice de Grideling, his sister, of certain lands formerly held by William son of Bernard in villenage, lying in the fields of Tharlestropp, in consideration of a yearly payment of a pair of white gloves or of one penny at Easter. Witnesses: Sir William de Falcunbridge knight, Thomas de Fretheville, Rog de Hocco (?) of Barlebrough, Henry le Pringer (?) of Wittewell, Robert del Hurst. Vellum: one skin 10×7. Notes: signed as a "true copy" by Edmo Woodhead, Barthol Hewes. The copy seems to be imperfect. In Lyson's "Magna Britannia" vol v, p 48 is the following note in reference to Barlbrough: "It is probable that this was the same manor which, in the reign of Edward I, belonged to William de Fauconberg; it was then called the manor of Ada (sic) de Grydeling, or the chamber of Ada, and the park of Barlbrough (Esch 23 Edw. I)." Falcunbridge is probably an error in transcription for Fauconberge. Dugdale's "Baronage," vol ii, p 3, mentions "William de Fauconberge, younger son of the family of that name, who had a summons to Parliament, 28 Edward I." He was still alive 7 Edward II.
- 845 Undated, probably early 13th century. Photograph of a Charter (Lat.) confirming a grant from Nichola de Novo Mercato (Newmarket) to Thomas Gere of Bectona (Beighton co Derby) and his heirs, of all her arable lands within the town of Bectona and beyond; to wit, within the bounds of the fields of Bectona; except both her free and servile tenants; and except her portion in the great wood of Bectona; and except lands in the same wood, to wit, in West Wode; and except that land which came to her after the death of her brother's wife Amable, but including the meadow; and all her share of the mill; with the sequel of her bondmen; and all her share in the park; and the tower of the former castle; with free and due ingress and egress, in and from the same; both with waggons, carts and teams, to have and to hold of the grantor and her heirs, to the said Thomas Gere and his heirs or assigns, freely quietly etc, in ways, waters, paths, woods, meadows, and pastures with all appurtenances, easements and liberties to the said land appertaining; paying annually to the grantor and her heirs, one pound of cummin, at the feast of Saint Thomas the Apostle for all secular services etc; the said Thomas Gere paying eleven marks of silver as a gersum (de gersoma). Witnesses: Sir Robert de Furneys, John and John parsons of Ekynton, Ralph Britone, Robert de Witterton, Sir John de Heymcurth, William de Musters, Sir Geoffrey de Stokes, Robert de Muscham (Muschamp), Thomas de Lincoln, Thomas de Saint Quintin (sancto quintino), William son of Richard. Notes: the original charter is at the Bodleian Library, Oxford, and is part of the "Dodsworth Collection" of MSS. vol 76, number 105. It measures only $5\frac{1}{2} \times 3\frac{1}{2}$, and is a beautiful specimen of 13th century script. The Oxford Dictionary gives gersum and variants as meaning a premium or fine paid to a feudal superior on entering upon a holding.

234 1292 Sunday next before the Feast of the Nativity of Saint John the Baptist (24th June). Release and Quit Claim (Lat.) by Thomas son of Hugh de Wygeley in Brampton (co Derby) to Roger de Wygeley, of all his right and claim in a croft, and fourteen and a half acres of land at Besul; and in three roods above Wityl, in the fee of Brampton. Witnesses: Robert le Caus, Hugh de Lynaker, Nicholas de Hulme, John del Haye, Roger de Wygeley clerk, Richard del Haye. Vellum: one skin 7×4 , seal missing. Notes: endorsed, in a hand of a later date, is a memorandum, "1292 Wigley release of Besehull & Whytehill."

251 Undated, probably late 13th century. Charter (Lat.) confirming an assignment and quit claim from Margery, daughter of Robert le Bastard of Kateby to Richard clerk, son of William de Bectona (Beighton), of a rent of five shillings, and a pound of cummin; which Geoffrey Gere used to pay for the whole tenement, with the appurtenances, which he held of the feoffor in Bectona; and a rent of twenty two pence, which Geoffrey son of Gwido used to pay, for half an oxgang held of the feoffor in Bectona; and also one toft in the town of Bectona, which William son of John formerly held; and an oxgang, with the appurtenances, which Ralph Hippy then held, and Ralph himself, bondman of the feoffor, with all his family and with all his chattels, and all the feoffor's part of Westwode, with land which Nicholas (or Nichola) de Newmarket (novo mercato) gave to the feoffor by his (or her) charter; with homage, wardship, reliefs and all free services and customs; and with all other kinds of service which in any way might accrue from the said men (bondmen) and their heirs, to wit Geoffrey Gere, Geoffrey son of Gwydo, Ralph Hippy, and of land which the same men held, and of the said toft, and of part of Westwode; with all other rights which might in any way accrue from the said men and their lands, without reservation, for twelve silver marks, which the said Richard gave to the feoffor as a fine ; the said Richard and his heirs or assigns paying annually twenty five pence to the prior and convent of Blyth (Blyda), and in addition nine pence to John de Stoteuil. Witnesses : Sir Robert de Furneus, Sir Roger de Eyncourt, John rector of half the church of Eckenton, Ralph de Reueresby (?), Hugh de Dokemanton, Ralph de Sidenal, Thomas de Leys, John de Hacentorp, Thomas son of Nicholas of the same, William son of John of Bectona, Ralph Manderel of the same. Vellum : one skin $7 \times 6\frac{1}{2}$, seal missing. Notes : see number 845.

247 Undated, probably late 13th century. Release and Quit Claim (Lat.) from Robert son of Nicholas de Laxtona to Richard clerk of Bectona (Beighton), of two acres of pasture, with the appurtenances, in Wodemedue in Bectona, which he had by the charter of Ralph, brother of the said Richard, for four silver marks which the said Richard gave as a fine (gersumia) on entering the land. Witnesses : Geoffrey Gere, John de Horbiri, William son of John de Bectona, Geoffrey son of Gwido, Simon de Chevercurt, Robert France, Roger de Peckis (?), John de Hacuntorp, Thomas of the same. Vellum : one skin $7 \times 2\frac{1}{4}$, seal missing. Notes : see number 845.

246 Undated, probably late 13th century. Charter (Lat.) confirming a grant from Peter son of Nicholas de Rechorfeld and Beatrice his wife to Richard clerk of Bectona (Beighton), for homage and services, of all lands and rents which Marjory daughter of Robert de Kateby sold to the grantor ; namely, five shillings rent and one pound of cummin, which Geoffrey Gere used to pay for the whole tenement with the appurtenances, which he held of him in Bectona ; and a rent of twenty two pence which Geoffrey son of Gwido (?) used to pay for half an oxgang, which he held in the same town ; and further, one toft in the town of Bectona, which William son of John formerly held ; and an oxgang with the appurtenances which Ralph Huppi held ; and Ralph himself a bondman, with all his family and his chattels ; and all the third part of the wood of Westwode, with land appertaining to the said wood, and formerly part of the park of Bectona, lying between the park of Sir Robert de Furneus and Paynellflat, and between the great arable field (magnum culturam), and land of the said Richard, without any reservation ; paying annually two shillings and ten pence, and one pound of cummin, in the vigil of Saint Martin. Witnesses : Sir Gervase de Bernak, Sir Ralph de Horbury, Philip rector of the church of Treton, John de Waliswode, Robert de Cravene, Alex Dolfen, Ralph Manderel of Bectona, William of the same. Vellum : one skin $7\frac{1}{2} \times 5$, one seal missing, the other small, in good condition.

- 244 Undated, probably 13th century. Charter (Lat.) confirming a grant from Jordan de Chevercurt to Richard de Bectona, for homage and services, of all that land which was of Thol the reeve in the territory of Bectona (Beighton, co Derby), with all its appurtenances, both in the wood and in the open land, sufficient for buildings and for fire; and in all other places, appertaining to the same land, paying annually to the said Jordan de Chevercurt and his heirs two shillings, payable four times a year, for all services, except forinsec services to the King. Witnesses: Luke the parson of Carl(ton?), Richard de Chevercurt, Richard Fitzharding, Mathew Fitzodo, Henry de Morthing, William de Wellum, Peter de Bectona, John de Bectona, Nicholas de Bectona. Vellum: one skin $5 \times 5\frac{3}{4}$, seal missing.
- 282 Undated, late 13th century hand. Charter (Lat.) confirming a grant from Nicholas Mussard lord of Staveley to William le Bret and his heirs, of a plot of land (cultura) called Rynghaye, lying between the water called Westewodebrok and "les Orpittes" of Brimington; another plot called Oxleson near Houlehacking and Westewod, which he inherited from Ralph Mussard his father; also rents from the heirs of Adam Bete of "Chastrefeld" for a tenement called Helderidding; and rents from the heirs of Sir Peter de Bremington knight, for common pasture in Staveley, and an annual rent of a pound of pepper from the same, for a tenement in Staveley called Houlehacking; in consideration of a yearly payment by the grantee of a red sparrow hawk (espervarium soreum) or 12 pence. Witnesses: Roger le Brete knight, John de Eyncourt, Walter de Bolesovere, Hugh de Lynacre, Thomas del Leys, Ralph Caschors, John the clerk. Vellum: one skin (with large holes in it) $9\frac{1}{2} \times 6$, no seal. Notes: there is no sign of a seal having been attached, and this may be a contemporary copy. Nicholas Mussard succeeded his nephew as lord of Staveley 17 Edward I (1288) and died 29 Edward I (1300).
- 279 Undated, 13th century hand. Charter (Lat.) confirming a grant from John son of Ralph de Kinewaldemers (Killamarsh) to Geoffrey de Becton, of three rods of meadow in the fields of Kinewaldemers, lying in the North Riding, near a rod held by Bate de Netherthorpe, and stretching from the ditch near the bridge of Kinewaldemers to the River Roder, in consideration of one mark of silver. Witnesses: Roger de Hoto of Barlburgh, Robert de Runlegh, William son of Elam of Kinewaldemers, John son of Peter of the same, William Dolphin, John Dolphin, John Morewyn of Becton, Geoffrey Gere of the same. Vellum: one skin 9×3 , seal torn or cut from the charter.
- 812 Late 13th or early 14th century. Probably an almost contemporary copy of a Charter (Lat.) confirming a grant from Thomas de (Chaworth?) to Alice Casteleyne of Osberton and Rose her daughter, of a plot of ground called Isomaysal in the soke of Norton, with the arable land appertaining to it, formerly in the tenure of Ralph Isemay, for the life of Alice with remainder to Rose and her heirs, subject to a yearly rent of one penny at the Feast of the Nativity of Saint John the Baptist, in lieu of all services etc except forinsec services to the King, failing any direct heirs to Rose the land was to revert to the grantor. Witnesses: William le Bret, Roger le Breton, John de Brymyngton, master Henry de Neubold, Alan de Loune (?), Peter de Leyes, John de Lightwode. Notes: the names William le Bret and Roger le Breton appear in a charter about 1300 and William le Bret appears in a charter of 1312. See Addy's "Beauchief," pp 63 and 64. The male line of the Derbyshire le Bretons became extinct in the early part of the 14th century. Vellum: one skin $9 \times 3\frac{1}{2}$.

Late 13th or early 14th century. Probably an almost contemporary copy of a Charter (Lat.) confirming a grant from Thomas de Chaworth knight to Alice Casteleyn of Osberton for life and to Rose her daughter, of the land and appurtenances formerly in the tenure of William de Heytridding, together with fifteen acres and a plot called Wetlandis, formerly in the tenure of Robert de le Heytridding, and various small plots formerly in the tenure of Thomas de Hemenlisworth, John Binger, Hugh Basse son of Nicholas, John son of Alan, John Goddeknawe, John son of Agnes, Ralph Hyssmaye, subject to a yearly rent of a rose in summer for all services, except forinsec service to the King. Failing direct heirs to Rose, the land was to revert to the grantor. Vellum: one skin 8×5 . Notes: this charter is a duplicate of the first entry in number 300, except that number 300 gives a list of witnesses: namely, Sir William de Fulkingham, then abbot of Beauchief, John de Brymington, William Maleneye of Dronfeld, Thomas de Wodehouses, Roger Carpenter, Peter de Bernys, Peter de Leys. The names of Agnes Casteleyn, her daughter and Peter de Leyes appear in number 300, which from the names of the witnesses would appear to be circa 1310. Alice Casteleyn seems to have been the mistress of Thomas de Chaworth, and Rose his daughter to have been the Rose of this deed. See numbers 809 and 813.

Late 13th or early 14th century. Probably an almost contemporary copy of a Charter (Lat.) confirming a grant from Thomas de Chaworth knight lord of Norton to John Lutrell, son of Sir Alexander, and Rose the grantor's younger daughter and wife of the said John and their heirs, of the manor of Heytredding in the soke of Norton, which Alice Castelayn had by grant for life, with appurtenances and common of pasture for all animals except goats, also common of pasture in Rohaghe for eight oxen and six cows and right of entry into the wood of Rohagh, and the right of taking wood for enclosing their meadow. Failing direct heirs of John and Rose the land was to revert to the grantor. Vellum: one skin $7\frac{1}{2} \times 5$. Notes: a duplicate of this charter appears in number 300, which is endorsed "a deed of Chaworth Herdings 1344," on what authority does not appear. Among the witnesses there given are Sir Thomas de Furnyval, Sir Adam de Everingham, Sir Walter de Gaushull, Sir William de Fulkingham then abbot of Beauchief, Sir Roger de Brailesford then rector of Dronfeld, John Dencourt, John de Everyngham. The names of five of these witnesses appear in two charters circa 1300 and 1312. See Addy's "Beauchief," pp 63 and 64. To judge from this document Mr. Addy's date 1423 for William de Fulkingham's abbotship of Beauchief can hardly be correct, see the same reference p 72. We are probably safe in dating this document circa 1310.

Early 14th century. A copy on paper, probably made in the 17th century, of a Charter (Lat.) from Thomas de Chaworth lord of Norton to John his son, son of Alice Castelin, and his heirs, of all the land which Thomas de Himisworth once held of him in villenage in the soke of Norton, on condition of the yearly payment of an arrow feathered with peacock's feathers. Paper: one sheet $6\frac{1}{2} \times 8$. Notes: the original of this charter would appear to belong to the early 14th century. See number 300.

(1304) Sunday the vigil of Saint Laurence (10th August), in the 32nd year of Edward I. Award and Agreement (Norman French), dated at Cruche. The deed recites that there had been two disagreements between the parties: Sir Ralph Frechenvile had begun a plea of mort d'ancestre against Gerard de Seyncler and Joan his wife as deforciant, of two messuages and all the land which Lady Amis de Frechenvile, the plaintiff's mother, had bought from Thomas Chacchethors in Staveley Woodthorpe; also Gerard and Joan had begun a plea of novel disseisin before Adam de Crokedhocks and Henry de Sutton with regard to a messuage with demesne lands and meadow, then in the tenure of Ralph, and formerly in the tenure of Lady Amis. It was agreed, by the agency of common friends, that Gerard and Joan should acknowledge before the first justices who should come to take the assizes in the county of Derby, that the two messuages etc, were the right of Ralph, on condition that Ralph should create a life estate in them for Joan. As regards the messuage etc, in the tenure of Ralph, it was agreed that they should be valued, and the arable land measured in acres, by the perch used in the district, within fifteen days after the Feast of Saint Laurence that year. An estate was to be created of 4d for each acre of arable land, and 12d for each acre of meadow. The messuage and closes were to be held by certain tenants of rent assize, so that Joan might distrain upon them if the payments were in arrear. On the other hand Gerard and Joan were to withdraw from their suit of novel disseisin, and if by any fraud Gerard and Joan were to release their estate to the heirs of Sir Seyr de Hountinfeld, then the estate thus created was to revert to Ralph. Ralph moreover agreed to pay Gerard and Joan two marks on the day when the covenants should be sealed after the land had been measured. The parties pledged themselves to each other in the presence of William le Bret, Henry le Burgilon and others. Notes: a photograph of this interesting deed is reproduced as a frontispiece to this catalogue, and a full transcript with contractions extended in italics is given in the appendix.

(1399-1400) on the morrow of the Feast of Saint Gregory Pope (March 12th), in the . . . year of King Henry . . . Indenture of Lease (Lat.), dated at Norton, from Thomas de Chaworth lord of Norton to William Shemyld, of the site of the manor of Norton, which Robert de Grangia then lately held, excepting . . . Cokhagh, a plot of land in the tenure of John Lord, wards, marriages, reliefs and other dues from free and "native" tenants, for a term of thirty years, in consideration of an annual rent of 56s 8d and suit of court. The lessor reserved to himself the right of breaking down old houses and of carrying them away and selling them, while the lessee agreed to keep the buildings, closes and garden fences in repair with timber supplied by the lessor, and not to cut down trees, underwood or branches except for the above purpose or for fuel in his hospice. Fuel required for baking or brewing was to be the subject of a special arrangement. The lessor was to have free ingress into the woods for charcoal burning, and the lessee was to make no waste in the "spryng" of the wood for the next three or four years after such burning. The latter also agreed to root up the weeds and "brymbles" in the fields. Vellum : one skin 14×8 , seal missing. Notes : a certain Fox was also a party to the indenture, but his interest in the lease is not explained. A "native" was a villein or bondman. The deed is full of holes and in bad condition.

06 and 707 (1608-9) the octave of Saint Hillary (20th January), in the 6th year of James I. Two parts of a Final Concord (Lat.), in an action between John Bullocke esquire plaintiff and John Parker esquire and Mary his wife deforciant, whereby the latter quit claimed to the former a messuage, a cottage, 2 gardens, 2 orchards, 40 acres of land, 10 acres of meadow, 40 acres of pasture and 14 acres of wood at Norton, in consideration of £80. Vellum: one skin 15 × 5.

79 1608(-9) February 12th, in the 6th year of James I. Indenture of Grant and Lease (Engl.) from John Parker of Norton Lees co Derby esquire to John Bullocke of Darleighe co Derby esquire; after reciting an indenture dated 28th November 1608 between the said John Parker of the 1st part, the said John Bullocke of the 2nd part, and Edward Deane and Henry Spencer of the 3rd part, whereby John Parker granted to the said John Bullocke a messuage, a cottage and divers lands, then in lease for several terms of years not then expired; subject to several rents, and an agreement that the said John Bullocke should have £20 a year until the said several leases should expire; the said John Parker granted to the said John Bullocke the reversion of all and singular the houses, lands etc in the joint or several occupations of Stephan Bamforth, Robert Barnes, John Barnes, James Wardell and Robert Eyre or which were contained in the said several leases or any of them and not being by the said recited indenture limited to the use of the said John Bullocke, after the recovery thereby agreed upon to be suffered: further the said John Parker demised and leased unto the said John Bullocke all those houses, buildings, closes and parcels of land, meadow and pasture in the parish of Norton; namely, one tenement or house of four bayes and an outshoote theretofore used for a "bloome smythie"; also one "coale howse" near New Mylne; also a parcel of ground called the Smythiehill, lying on the south side of the said house; and also a wheele, wheelehouse or tenement serving for a cutlers mylne or wheele, being near to the aforesaid tenement sometime a "bloome smythie," with "all watercourses, dames, streames, dam steedes, and wheeles" thereto belonging, or late in the occupation of Richard Cowley; the West Cliffe then in the occupation of Thomas Hudson; and the Roughe Cliffe and Carr Field then in the occupation of John Greene; and all other houses lands etc in the parish of Norton or Norton Lees, then in the occupation of the said Richard Cowley and the reversion and reversions of the same, for the term of fourteen years. Witnesses: Ro Baskafeld (?) . . . Johnson. Vellum: one skin 21 × 12, seal of John Parker shows a coat of arms with achievements, the arms are quarterly, at least three coats. Notes: it is not clear why this deed was necessary, as the recital of the original bargain and sale is incomplete, but the reference to the recovery action suggests that by oversight some property had been omitted and leases overlooked, and this deed was executed to put matters right between the parties.

- 303 1609 March 25th, in the 7th year of James I. Charter (Lat.) confirming a grant from Francis Heathcote of Chesterfeild butcher to John Boro of Chesterfeild blacksmith, of a piece of land in Chesterfeild, in a place called Blynde Lane near Spitle Brygg, recently acquired from Godfrey Platts; and acknowledging receipt from John Boro of £3 13s 4d for the same. Vellum : one skin $9\frac{1}{2} \times 4\frac{1}{2}$, seal missing.
- 804 (1609) June 28th, in the 7th year of James I. Precept (Lat.) under the Great Seal to the eschaetor of Derbyshire to deliver seisin to John Bullocke esquire, of lands in Hognaston etc. The document recites that an inquisition post mortem had been held on the death of John Bullocke esquire by the last eschaetor John Pendocke esquire, and that it had been returned, that John Bullocke died seised of a messuage or farm in Hognaston in the parish of Ashburne co Derby then in the tenure of Thomas Bradley, with appurtenances and other lands in the same, out of which he had, by an indenture of 21st September 1603, created an estate for his second son Francis Bullocke; also of a messuage with appurtenances including the site of the dissolved monastery of Darleighe, 1 garden, 2 orchards, 1 dovecot, 4 mills in Darleighe, 300 acres of land, 20 acres of meadow, 100 acres of pasture, and 100 acres of gorse and broom, lying in Darleighe, the parish of Saint Alkmund and the parish of Mackworth, also of 3 messuages, $10\frac{1}{2}$ oxgangs and 40 acres of wood, in Great Norton, Little Norton and Jordanthorpe; also of the manor of Greenehill in Greenehill, Bradwaye and Wood Seates, 200 acres of gorse and broom in Greenehill, Bradwaye and Woodseates, 1 messuage, 3 oxgangs in Brodwaye (sic), a parcel of land in the parish of Dronfeild called Birchett More, 2 messuages, 3 oxgangs in Woodseates, 1 messuage, 1 oxgang in Lee Lees (sic) in the parish of Norton then in the tenure of Thomas Bartyn, 1 cottage, $\frac{1}{2}$ oxgang then lately acquired of John Parker esquire, 1 messuage in Brampton in the parish of Chesterfeild then in the tenure of Ralph Boote with appurtenances, 1 cottage with appurtenances then in the tenure of James Bagshawe, 1 cottage with appurtenances in Brampton then in the tenure of . . . Newbold, 1 cottage with appurtenances in Brampton then in the tenure of Robert Cooke, 1 messuage with appurtenances in Blackwall then in the tenure of widow Boote, 1 messuage in Heighnor with appurtenances, then in the tenure of William Stephens; 4 messuages with appurtenances in Ockbrock, 1 messuage, 6 oxgangs in Quarne alias Quarndon, 200 acres of gorse and broom called Burley Wood in the parish of Duffield, 3 messuages with appurtenances in Derby in the tenure of Thomas Burne, Laurence Breareley, and John Baggaley; 10 acres in Derby, 2 messuages in Duffield in the tenure of Anne Botham widow and Robert Claver, and 30 acres of land, 4 acres of meadow in Duffield. Of these messuages and lands, those in Darleighe, except the four mills, the manor of Greenehill, those in Bradwaye, Birchett More, Woodseates and Heynor had been held in chief by military service, while those in Great Norton had been held by the same tenure, as of the Honour of Tickhill, though in all these cases the jury were unable to say for what part of a knight's fee. The messuages etc in Hognaston had been held in common socage as of the Honour of Tutbury parcel of the Duchy of Lancaster, the mills in Darleighe in common socage as of the manor of Eastgreenewiche, the messuages etc in Brampton, Blackwell, Ockbrocke, Burlye Wood, Derby and Duffield as of the same manor in common socage by fealty alone, while one messuage in Duffield was held in common socage by fealty alone as of the manor of Fulfeild parcel of the Duchy of Lancaster. The jury presented that John Bullocke had died 12th October 5 James I (1607), and that John Bullocke esquire his son and heir, was of full age 6th October 6 James I (1608). In consideration of the fact that the latter had paid all dues into the Court of Wards and Liveries, the King gave precept to the eschaetor of Derbyshire to deliver seisin to him of the above lands. Notes: endorsed "a General Lyvery above value graunted to John Bullocke Esquire." Endorsements of the Exchequer and the Court of Wards and Liveries. Vellum: one skin 24 × 20, Great Seal in yellow wax, 6 inches diameter.

Hall; and a further £20, then owing to testator by John Tayler her brother, "which was bestowed about the getting of his Wardshippe"; to Joseph Tayler £10; to Ellin Rotheram daughter of testator's brother William Rotheram £15; to Mary Rotheram £5; to his servant Mary Bolsover 20s; residue to his brother William Rotheram, whom he made sole executor. Included in the grant of probate is an undated memorandum (presumably of later date, but attested by the same three witnesses as the will), which directed that his brother in law the said Thomas Rent, and his brother the said William Rotheram, should have "full power and right of the wardshipp, custody of the body, lands and marriage of John Tayler in as ample manner" as testator might have had "by virtue of his maties Grant thereof." Further provisions as to a misunderstanding of the will of William Tayler. Then follows a list of debts owing to testator "without specialty"; namely, John Howsdon £10 3s 0d; George Stones younger 11s; widdow Treeton 20s; John Stones 50s; William Wood 10s; Richard Shawe of Sheffield 9s; Richard Ottinwell or Ottuwell 8s; William Rent 40s; Richard Thompson 13s; Robert Cowley for rent 16s; Robert Pinder; George Lee; Thomas Newbold; William Rent; James Cowley; John Turner; Philipp Hobson; James Hobson and the executors of Thomas Hobson 20s. The grant of administration with the will annexed is in special form, it was "given at London under the seale of the Court for Probate of Wills and granting administrations." It states that William Rotheram the executor and brother of the testator died (presumably after the testator) "before he had taken upon him" by authority of that Court, the execution of the will; that Anne Rotheram a minor was "cozen" and next of kin of the testator; and the Court granted administration with the will annexed, to Alice Rotheram the mother and guardian of Anne. Witnesses: Robert Turner, Henry Williamson, John Turner. Vellum: two skins, the probate 19×14, and the grant 7½×5; the seal is broken.

1695 November 20th, in the 7th year of William III. Indenture of Lease (Engl.) from Edward Parker of Sutton Coldfield co Warwick gent to William Parker of Little Norton co Derby yeoman, of a messuage or tenement with all outbuildings etc and appurtenances, situate in Little Norton, then in the occupation of the said William Parker; and all the closes, crofts, pastures, meadows or mowing ground, coppice, wood etc, and hereditaments occupied therewith; and also a cottage, croft, orchard etc in Little Norton, then in the occupation of Joseph Parker; reserving timber, with the right to enter with horses, oxen, carts, waines, and other carriages; and "to fall, cutt down, stockup, saw, coard, coale, make sawpitts, get turfe and soile for coaleing, worke up, take and carry away" etc; not hurting standing corn or mowing grass, leaving nevertheless sufficient wood and tynsell for the necessary repairs of the demised premises; for seven years from the 25th March then next, at a yearly rent of £40 10s 0d. The covenants contain (inter alia) one by the lessor, to pay the duty for such part of the said premises as were held of the manor of Tickill. Witnesses: Joseph Ranby, Fran Parkes. Vellum: one skin 24×18, the small seal of red wax bears a dragon rampant. Notes: this lease would expire 25th March 1703, and on its expiration the lessor granted a lease of the same premises, at the same rent, for fourteen years to Joshua Calton, see number 670. Tynsell is an obsolete word meaning brushwood for fencing. See Oxford Dictionary, also number 670 where the word is spelt tincell.

(1698) September 1st, in the 10th year of William III. Indenture of Bargain and Sale (Engl.) between Henry Bright of Whirlow co York gent and Dorothy his wife of the 1st part, Robert Ashton of Bradway co Derby esquire and Charles Ashton clerk, trustees of the marriage settlement of the said Henry Bright and Dorothy daughter of the said Robert Ashton of the 2nd part and Robert Offley of Norton co Derby gentleman of the third part. The object of this deed was to settle an action brought by Robert Offley, a mortgagee of the settled estates of the Bright family, for repayment of his mortgage debt ; the arrangement being that he should take a conveyance of part of the mortgaged property in final settlement of his claim. The recitals set out the facts, and the operative part transfers part of the mortgaged property to the mortgagee. In the recitals and parcels the following names of persons and places occur ; namely, Cornelius Clerke then late of Norton esquire deceased, Revell Copley and Hannah his wife, Benjamin Eyre and Gartrude his wife (Hannah and Gartrude sisters of Henry Bright), Denis Nevile, Thomas Bright gent deceased, Henry Bright the grandfather, Henry Bright the father, Fullwood, Ecclesall, Sheffield, Dronfield, Ecclesall Bierley, Rose Fields, Jonathan Woolhouse, Robert Blackden, Graystones Cliffe, Dead Lane, Mayhouse in Fullwood, Upper Field, Nether Field, Upper Spring, Nether Spring, Upper Meadow, Nether Meadow, Dovehouse and a pingle thereto in Ecclesall, John Dale, Nether House in Fullwood, Smithy Yard, Smithy Croft, Over Dove Field, Edward Dale, Heend-acre, Little Meadow, Wood Close in Fullwood, Goosegreene in Ecclesall, Lyme Lands in Fullwood, Thomas Taylor. Vellum: one skin 33×24. Notes: the deed bears no signatures, no seals, and no attestation clause, but there are two impressed stamps of sixpence each.

1669 September 15th, in the 11th year of William III. Indenture of Lease (Engl.) from William Duke of Devonshire to Henry Smith in the parish of Staveley co Derby yeoman, of the customary "dutyes" and customary rights and profits of the lead mines, commonly called The Lott and Cope ; and all the meerdishes, lords meeres, primgaps, oddyards, and forfeited pieces of ground, arising and coming from the lead mines within the liberties, townes, villages, places and hamlets of Ashford, Eaddington, Chelmarton, Flagg, Monyash, Over Haddon, Brushfield, Mornisdale alias Little Longston in the parish of Bakewell co Derby ; the which, his Grace was entitled unto by demise or grant under the Crown ; also all and singular his "tyth oar," growing due from time to time within the said towns, villages etc ; and also two thirds of the "tyth oar" of and within the lordship of Bakewell, to which he was entitled in his own right, for a term of two years from the 29th September 1699, at a yearly rent of £200 payable halfyearly. Covenants by the lessee include a covenant to pay all extraordinary taxes etc. Witnesses: Tho Bagshaw, Wm Grosvenor, Tho Matthew. Vellum: one skin 22×21, the seal of Devonshire bears two serpents intertwined, with a motto below a crown. Notes: endorsed is a consent by the Duke, to Henry Smith assigning the premises demised, subject to the conditions of the lease.

1703(-4) February 21st, in the 2nd year of Anne. Indenture of Lease (Engl.) from Judith Mollyneux of Hasland in the county of Derby lady to John Bright of Chesterfield gentleman, for 21 years at a rent of £9. 6s, of a close in Boythorpe in the parish of Chesterfield, called Shaw Low, another close called Stansall Long Close. Witnesses: Thomas Bonde, John Brocksopp, Thomas Lucas. Notes: memorandum dated 19th October 1704 endorsed, states that the interest and tenant right was transferred to John Bretland of Hasland in consideration of £2 6s 6d. Vellum: one skin 26×17, one seal in paper.

1703(-4) March 23rd. Admittance and Surrender (Lat. and Engl.), extracted from the court rolls of the manor of Bolsover, at a court of the Most Noble John Duke of Newcastle held the above date, when Mary Bright wife of John Bright of Chesterfield co Derby gentleman, sister and heiress of Nicholas Youle late of Chesterfield gentleman then deceased was admitted, on payment of a relief of 5s 4d, to lands within the manor, which came to her on the death of the said Nicholas Youle as his heiress; whereupon she surrendered a messuage in Bolsover with several closes called The Croft, Town-end Pingle, Little Stile Pingle, Three Danisbrook Closes and two acres in Townfields, all in Bolsover, in the occupation of William Totley, to the only proper use and behoof of The Mayor and Aldermen of Chesterfield, who were admitted tenants of the manor, they paying a fine of 5s 4d. From a recital of the facts leading up to this admittance and surrender, it appears that Richard Youle, by will dated 30th June 1699, gave and devised to the Corporation of Chesterfield 20s yearly for ever; to buy yearly and every year eight pair of good strong shoes, and to give them to eight poor widows, dwelling in Chesterfield, sometime in the week before Xmas Day; and also 40s a year more for ever, to buy yearly, on the 5th November, six score four-penny loaves, to be given on that day to six score poor people dwelling in Chesterfield, the shoes and bread to be disposed of at the discretion of The Mayor, Aldermen and Overseer of the Poor of Chesterfield, and with "the good likeinge and approbation" of his nearest relation, who should "Inhabit there"; and he wished the poor people who benefited, to be such as frequented the Church of England; further he gave to the said Corporation 17s 4d yearly for ever, to buy weekly every market-day in the market, four four-penny loaves to be given to four poor widows, pursuant to the will of his uncle George Youle of Chesterfield; and he gave to the vicar of Chesterfield for the time being for ever 20s yearly, to preach a sermon in the Church, on every 5th November; and he charged all these annuities on two closes in Chesterfield, called Nether Horse Crofts, until his executors should purchase lands for the security and payment thereof, which the testator evidently intended should be transferred to and held by the Mayor and Aldermen, as he charges them with payment of 20s a year to the vicar for the sermon, out of the rents; and the residue of the rents were to be applied for the charities above stated. The said Mary Bright was the surviving executor of the will, and this surrender was intended to free and discharge the closes called Horse Crofts from the said pious and charitable bequests. Vellum: one skin 18 × 19.

1704 May 19th, in the 1st year of Anne. Indenture of Release and Quit Claim (Engl.) between Henry Poynton of Wadsley in the parish of Sheffield yeoman and Charles Blythe of Doncaster co York yeoman of the one part, and Thomas Birley then of Staveley Hagg co Derby gent and Nicholas Birley of Barnsley co York gent, second son of the said Thomas, of the other part; whereby, in consideration of £250, the parties of the 1st part released to the parties of the 2nd part, all their claim in property at Hazelhurst in Norton. In the description of the property and in the covenants, the following names of persons and places occur; namely, Two Dayes Work, Stony Field, Three Days Work, Fitch Field, Rye Field, Marle Lands, Narr and Farr Smithy Fields, Dunstead, West Jack Field. Witnesses: Tho Bosvile, J Banks, Jo Battie. Vellum: one skin, torn in several places, 26×23, seals missing. Notes: The writing is illegible in many places and much faded in others.

1707 February 23rd. Indenture of Assignment (Engl.) in bankruptcy, made between Peter Persehouse of London esquire, Timothy Langley of London gentleman and Thomas Davis of London gentleman of the one part, and John Bright of Chesterfield co Derby merchant of the other part; whereby, after reciting the appointment of commissioners in the bankruptcy of Samuel Watson of Sheffield mercer, and an agreement that the said John Bright should pay the creditors 15s in the pound, the commissioners assigned unto the said John Bright all the "goods, wares, merchandizes, household stuff, implements" and book debts of the said Samuel Watson. There is a schedule of the merchandise, furniture and book debts, with the value or amount of each; this schedule covers four large skins and contains many hundreds of items; the values put upon the goods and furniture are interesting; the numerous priced items of a large mercer's business being set forth in great detail. Witnesses: C Bagnall, Ann Norris, Percivall Hart, Tho Bagnall. Vellum: five skins about 29×26, three seals of the commissioners appear to be armorial.

ANCIENT MANUSCRIPT BOOKS & ROLLS.

(1384) from the Feast of Saint Michael Archangel (September 29th), in the 8th year of Richard II, to the same Feast in the 9th year. Compotus Roll (Lat.) of William Neelson, reeve of the manor of Conesburgh. This is a single sheet of parchment 25×12, at the right hand of which has been sewn a portion of an account roll of the same manor for the same period, presented by Ralph Clerk, locum tenens of Henry Westby. Neelson's account contains only the credit side, namely, the profits of the manor, under the heads: rents of assize, works and customary services, farms of the demesne land and meadows, leases of grazing and sales of ashtrees, and perquisites of courts. Frisby, Denyngby and Braythewell were included in the scope of the account. Clerk's account is incomplete, but it seems to be concerned with the same profits. Westby appears to have been constable of the castle. The whole manuscript is badly preserved and almost illegible.

1431-2 from the Feast of Saint Michael Archangel (September 29th), in the 10th year, to the same feast in the 11th year of Henry VI. Compotus Rolls (Lat.) of various manors belonging to Matilda of York Countess of Cambridge. This lady was the second wife of Richard Earl of Cambridge, who was the second son of Edmund Duke of York and grandson of Edward III. She was the daughter of Thomas, Lord Clifford and Elizabeth, daughter of Thomas Lord Rosse of Hamlake. The manors from which she received the profits appear to have come to her by way of dowry, from her second husband John, Lord Latymer, who died 9 Henry VI seized of the manors of Sinlington, Skampeston and Marten-super-Sevene. She died 25 Henry VI.—(1) Compotus of John Forster stockkeeper, Michaelmas to Michaelmas 10-11 Henry VI. This roll is of considerable interest as giving the prices of stock at the time. 'The same John answers for £22 received for 40 oxen sold to William Prank and William Fox of Scarborough and for £6 3s 4d received for 10 oxen sold to the prior of Gysburgh,' and for '9s 6d received from 1 cow sold to William Jackson' . . . 'and for 9s received from 1 young bullock sold to a certain butcher of Scarborough,' and 'for 16d for the flesh of one bullock which died of murrain' (a considerable percentage of the cattle seem to have been lost by murrain). The stockkeeper paid smaller prices for cattle bought for fattening purposes. 'And for two young oxen bought from William Western vis. id.' Other details are given relating to farm properties. 'And for 2 markyngyrens bought from Richard Norham for marking the lady's beasts 10d. And for 2 hanging bolts bought for two gates of the forest this year 6d. And for 2 hopes of iron and 4 stapels of iron bought for posts of the gates 2d.' There are references to the manors of Danby, Fryopp, and Sinyngton.—(2) Compotus of John Robynson and Robert Leventon agistators of the manor of Danby. This account deals with rents for grazing, or agistments.—(3) Portion of an account of some bailiff unnamed for Danby. On the receipt side appear the following entries 'And for 6d per annum of rent of the prior of Cromond for permission to lead water from Stanegatebek to his mill. . . . And for 10s the price of one cow of the prioress of Rosdale for the escape of her cattle into the lordship there payable at the feast of Saint Laurence.' A fulling-mill brought in a yearly rent of 13s 4d. A cornmill called 'Lelom Mylne' was rented at 16s. Two other corn-mills were let at a rent of 40s to John Robynson and Robert Leventon on a repairing lease. The lady of the manor promised on her part to supply the timber, while the tenants were willing to give up their lease at any time if the lady received a better offer. There are details of the rents of herbages and pastures and a curious entry of 2s 6d accruing from the sale of barbed arrows. The whole receipt was £100 6s 5½d. On the debit side is a long account of default of rent, containing many interesting personal and place names. Another charge upon the income is as follows: 'And for a certain annuity of 10 marks per annum issuing from the manor of Danby payable at Martinmas and Pentecost, granted to George de Ecton and his heirs by John Nevell the last Lord Latymer and late lord of the manor there.' Wages were paid to the unmounted foresters Robart de Leventon, John Proddom, Robert Elys, and William Mattheuwe, each receiving 30s 4d per annum. Foresters no doubt were allowed to take game, for their wages were usually much less than those of ordinary artisans. Under the head of 'costs of enclosures of the forest' appear charges for fencing and walling the pastures and woods from Closegarth to Fryopbrogh, 11s 2d.—(4) Account of Thomas Frauncys junior, bailiff, warden and parker of the manor of Synnyngton. The usual receipts appear—rents of demesne lands, sales of herbage, perquisites of court and sales of wood. Under the last head we have 'And for 28s 1d received from 34 Trees called Crankes remaining there . . . and for other divers trees and bark sold there.' On the expenditure side are the 'Expenses of the Chapel'—'For the wages of Richard Wryght of Synnyngton for fixing timber with staples in order to make a reserved space, and shut-off portion in the Chapel there and for lining the said space and place with carpentry, and timber sawed for the "plauncheryng" of the same, and for repairing three doors in the chapel, according to an agreement for the whole work made with him by Robert Mauleverer the Receiver, 33s 4d. And for the wages of William Carter for breaking out the stone walls of the chapel and making large holes in them for the joists (lez gystes) and other timber of the new chamber, and for filling up the holes and the old windows under the space of the said room—six days at 5d per diem. And in wages to the said William for plastering (pergettantis) 5 windows with lime and sand, which windows were recently blocked up with clay 2s 6d. And for 560 'Spykyngs' bought for the shut-off portion of the said chapel and other works 2s 6d. And to John Baker and John Burton for carrying timber from the park to the manor for the chapel—24 cartloads—2s. And for the wages of John Golland for tempering mortar and supplying William Carter with stone at 3d a day—in all 10½d. And for the wages of John Stele and Robert de Grene for plastering the said 5 windows—3s 4d.' Another interesting section deals with the 'costs of burning lime'—'And for wages of John Baker and John de Burton for carrying 24 wagon-loads of stone from Ladyclose to the manor limekiln 20d. And for carrying 24 loads of wood there 2s. And to John Stele and Robert de Grene for sawing, breaking and splitting the said wood 2s. And to William Carter for breaking (?) stone for lime and firing the said kiln, emptying it, carrying the lime to various buildings in the manor, placing it therein and taking care of it for the stock of the manor 22s 6d. And for the wages of John Stele and William de Grene for felling 60 stub oaks (stubes quercus) for burning the said lime 5s.' Among other items of expenditure are payments for riding on business to Sir John Clareweaux at Croft-on-Tees, and for riding down to Connesburgh to consult with the lady of the manor, the wages of John Gollon and Thomas Taillour the palers (palaciarii), the price of a lock called 'a stoklok,' and the wages of two sawyers for sawing a clog into 9 boards for a pair of doors. The steward and receiver's wages are given and their expenses in attending the audit and in enrolling their accounts. Altogether the expenditure on this account totalled £20 5s 1½d, and only £8 11s 9d was left as profit to the lady. This was charged further with the price of eggs supplied to her. The bailiff was allowed to retain part of the debt. An allowance was made for the expenses of two persons riding from Synnyngton to Connesburgh with six bucks, sent by the steward to the Lady's Hospice in Connesburgh for the rejoicings on the occasion of the wedding of Philip Spencer and Joan Clyfford. Finally, all deductions made, the actual profit in money amounted to £2 6s 8d.—(5) Account of William Thomson, 'Taillour,' receiver of Fryopp, which appears to have been a part of the manor of Danby. This account, which is imperfect, deals with grazing-leases of the meadows and forest of that place. Certain allowances were made in respect of items entered in other accounts. The roll is endorsed, 'Accounts of the various ministers of the lady Matilda de Yorke Countess of Cambridge rendered at the Feast of St Michael Archangel, in the 11th year of the reign of King Henry VI.—Danby, Synnyngton, Marten (?) Skampston. County, of York.'

1489 Jakes's Manuscript. A book of 82 leaves of paper 8×11 with vellum binding. On the first folio is a note in Latin "Labore et studio Thomae Jakes factus est hic liber continens feoda domini Hastings, ratione Marie uxoris eius domine Botreaux Hungerford Molins Moyles anno quinto Henrici Septimi regis Anglie. 5 H.7. 1489." (By the labour and zeal of Thomas Jakes was this book made, containing the fees of Lord Hastings, by right of his wife Mary, Lady Botreaux, Hungerford, Molins, Moyles, the fifth year of Henry the seventh, King of England 5 H 7 1489). The whole of Jakes's work has been annotated by a scribe of the 17th century, "W.B."; who has introduced several pages of fresh matter, and has added on the fly leaves at the end of the book an excellent index of persons and places. The book consists of extracts from various documents of earlier date relating to the above mentioned estates. Hunter refers to it as "Jakes's Manuscript," but gives no indication of ownership. On the reverse of the binding is written "J. G. A. Creswick, Ecclesall Grange," and on the first folio "[This MS is the Property of Mr Edward Goodwin of Sheffield In June 22 1798]." The book contains the following information; namely,

- (a) folios 1—4. A series of inquisitions post mortem, relating to estates of the Earl of Shrewsbury.

Second half of the 15th century. Manuscript Register of Deeds (Lat.) undated but in a late 15th century hand, containing 21 leaves of vellum numbered 25-28, 30-32, 35-40 (two being numbered 38), 45, 50-52, 55-57. The leaves are $10\frac{3}{4} \times 7\frac{1}{2}$, and there are three sheets of paper $8\frac{1}{2} \times 6$. The earliest deed is dated 1320 and the latest 1450. The bulk of the deeds are feoffments, but there are also quit claims, memoranda, letters of attorney and a survey. An interesting deed is numbered lxxv f 55, and is a confirmation of seisin, given by Richard Duke of York father of Edward IV and son of Richard of Connesburgh Earl of Cambridge. In all there are seventy eight entries including a few duplicates; thirty-five deeds relate to lands in Braithwell, Micklebring and Clifton. Doncaster has eighteen dealing with lands in Balby, Hexthorpe, Ouston, Adwick-le-Street and Doncaster; Ravenfield has ten under the head of Steristhorpe (Streethorpe); five deeds deal with lands in Sandal, and three with lands in Pigburn; while Rotherham is represented by four deeds. The bulk of the deeds are concerned with lands acquired by a certain John Vyncent and his wife Agnes. John Vincent, according to Hunter's "South Yorkshire," vol i, p 131, belonged to the family of the Vincents of Great Smeaton in Richmondshire. He was agent of Richard Duke of York for his Yorkshire property. For legal services rendered to the prior and convent of Lewes, he received a grant of a capital messuage called the Over-hall in Braithwell. He was slain with the Duke at the battle of Wakefield, 1460. Of two odd deeds, one concerns lands in Barningham granted by William Vyncent in 1380, and the other is a grant of lands in Scarthingwelle from the prior of the Hospital of Saint John of Jerusalem in England, dated at Eycles. It is evident from a comparison of these deeds with Hunter's "South Yorkshire," that Hunter was not acquainted with them, and that they would have given him information on several points of family history, with regard to which he deplores the lack of evidence. The separate deeds appear, with others, in this catalogue in their chronological order.

exchange of eny Tennant of y^e premises his or their beste beast or goods for a herryett." Paper: single sheet folio size. Notes: The Oxford Dictionary etc give the following: pece, piece—a portable fire arm, carbine; *dammask*e—probably for damascened, inlaid with ornamental designs in gold and silver; callyver, caliver—a light kind of musket or arquebus, introduced in xvith century (it seems to have been the lightest portable fire arm except the pistol and to have been fired without a "rest"); curets—obsolete form of cuirass; cuirass of proof was a piece of armour consisting of breast and back plate made of tested metal; almain revett, almain rivets—a kind of light armour first used in Germany, in which great flexibility was obtained by overlapping plates sliding on rivets; morryan, morion—a kind of helmet, without beaver or visor, worn by soldiers in the 16th and 17th centuries; scules, skulls—skull-caps of metal; pickes—pikes; target—a light round shield; fawchen, falchion—a broadsword with curved edge; ladles—"an instrument for charging with loose powder, formed of a cylindrical sheet of copper tube fitted to the end of a long staff." Smyth: Sailors' word-book, 1867; spudles, spuddles—little spuds or spades used for charging (?); tuchboxes, touchboxes—a box for touch-powder or priming-powder for the flint-pan of a musket; partysantes—a military weapon used by soldiers in the 16th and 17th centuries, consisting of a long-handled spear, the blade having one or more lateral projections variously shaped, so as sometimes to pass into the gisarme and the halberd; alberts, halberds—a kind of combination of spear and battle-axe, consisting of a sharp-edged blade ending in a point and a spear head, mounted on a handle five to seven feet long; black-bills—a weapon of war used by infantry, varying in shape from a simple concave blade with a long wooden handle to a kind of concave axe with a spike at the back and its shaft terminating in a spear head; jacks—a kind of sleeveless coat or tunic worn by foot-soldiers, usually of leather quilted, and in later times often plated with iron; sometimes applied to a coat of mail; plat-coattes—coats of plate-armour; harqqebushe of crocks—an early type of portable gun, which on account of its weight was supported on a tripod, trestle or forked "rest." Those with a rest were sometimes called arquebuse à croc, or harquebus of crocke; the croc or crocke seems to have been a hook or crook, by which the arquebus was fixed to its rest or support when fired; poldrens, pouldrens—shoulder plates; tacis, tassess—a series of plates depending from the corslet, each overlapping the other, forming a sort of kilt of armour to protect the thighs and lower parts of the trunk; vambracis, vambrace—a piece of armour protecting the forearm from the elbow to the wrist; gorget—a piece of armour for the throat; white armour—armour of burnished steel (?); splents, splints—overlapping pieces of steel in armour often used for the knee and elbow to give flexibility.

1597 October 26th, in the 39th year of Elizabeth. Court Book (Lat.) of the manor of Hope. Two sheets of paper 8×12 , evidently detached from the court book. The proceedings of a Little Court of John Curson esquire held on the above date are recorded. Robert Eayre of Dunge-worthe essoined for absence. The jury was as follows:—Robert Haughe, Elis Marshall, Ralph Bocking, William Heathecot, Andrew Trickett, Ralph Slack, Ellis Furnes, John Burdycane, William Middleton, Henry Paramore, William Eayre and Thomas Hoult. They presented Edmund Wooddruffe gentleman, John Hadfild senior, George Morton, Silvester Marten, George Hadfild for default of suit of court. They also presented that William Smethe had died seised of a messuage and oxgang in Hope, that his son Ottwell Smethe was of full age, and that a “harriet” (heriot) of the best beast was due to the lord. Ellis Furness surrendered a rod of land in Hope next to the dwelling-house of William Heathcote. The land lay between lands of Thomas Eayre and Robert Eayre of Dunge-worth, and was then in the occupation of William Heathcote, who was at this court admitted tenant. Edward Sanderson surrendered a cottage, barn, garden and croft, then in the tenure of Ellis Ward, to the use of the same, and the latter was admitted tenant.

Early 17th century. Manuscript Register of Deeds undated, but in early 17th century hands, relating to Kilnhurst, Rawmarshe and the city of York. This is a small folio volume $8 \times 11\frac{1}{2}$, bound in coarse parchment. It is possible that this is the book referred to by Hunter in “South Yorkshire,” vol ii, p 46, where he says “in Dodsworth’s notes from a volume of old deeds relating to Kilnhurst, is mention of John de Haplesthorpe, living in 1323, son and heir of William de Haplesthorpe, who had Whetecroft and the third part of Rawmarsh.” If this is so, the deed mentioned must have been in the earlier and now lost portion of the book. The register now consists of ninety leaves of paper, several leaves evidently having been removed from the beginning. The first deed is numbered 75 and in all there are one hundred and four entries, the earliest being dated 1239 and the latest 1617. It appears to have been compiled for the use of John Darley of York, into whose hands came the properties specified, and to have been continued for a year or two after his death by the Ellis family, which inherited his estates. The separate entries appear in the body of the catalogue.

Early 17th century. Manuscript History of Kirkstall Abbey (Lat). This document consists of five small folio sheets of paper 8×12 , sewn together in book form, with about sixty lines of small neat writing, on each of the first nine pages. It is headed “ffundatio abbattiie (sic) de Kirkstall,” and endorsed on the last page “Liber foundationis (sic) Monast de Kirkst: The Booke of the foundation of the Abbey of Kirkstall. Drake." When compared with the sources of Kirkstall history given in Bohn's edition of Dugdale's "Monasticon" 1846 vol 5, 526-553 and Whitaker's "History of Craven," it is seen to bear a close relation to three manuscript histories.—(1) On page 530, number ii, Bohn's edition of Dugdale's "Monasticon," vol 5, a transcription is given of a manuscript "Fundationis Historia . . . inter codices per Willelmum Cantuar. archiep. collatos. G.9. fol 129a." This manuscript (number 903) runs practically word for word with the Bodleian history, until the second part of the section dealing with the abbotship of Ralph Hageth, second abbot, when it gives twelve lines of information not found in the latter. The two contain the same account of Lambert the third abbot, but while the Bodleian manuscript gives "Helias the monk formerly of Roche" as fourth abbot, this, the Jackson manuscript, continues "on the death of Abbot Lambert there succeeded him Abbot Turgisius of sacred memory, a man of singular abstinence etc," and after seventeen lines of story, gives Helias as the fifth abbot. The Bodleian manuscript ends here, except for a final note common to both, while the Jackson manuscript continues with a list of abbots to Hugh de Grimston 1284, fifteenth abbot. Afterwards we have a series of legal documents, grants, protections etc, of various dates; and on page 9 appears a sixteenth abbot. "There succeeded to Hugh de Grymston John Bridesall Anno Dni MCCC IIII, a letter having been sent to the Prior and Convent." The letter follows in thirty six lines. The Jackson manuscript ends like the Bodleian, with four lines, containing a curious error. "It is found in the chronicles of the Abbey of Kirkstall that in the fourth year of King Henry (sic), and in the year of the Lord MCXCIIII in the month of August on the 21st day, viz, the Kalends of February, died lord Robert de Lascy of good memory, the second founder of the monastery of Kirkstall, and there he is buried." It seems fairly obvious that the Bodleian manuscript and the Jackson manuscript were derived from a common source, though the latter is much more complete.—(2) On page 527, Bohn's edition of Dugdale's "Monasticon" vol 5, is a note containing a long quotation from Stevens' "Continuation" vol ii, p 37 (John Stevens, d 1726, published in 1722 a "Continuation of Dugdale's Monasticon"). It runs "The Monasticon in the history of the Foundation of this monastery mentions only Alexander, Ralph, Lambert, and Helias, whom he makes the fourth, but in the manuscript, communicated by that learned Antiquary Ralph Thoresby, of Leeds, in Yorkshire, Esq. I find Turgisius the fourth abbat, and Helias the fifth." On comparing the abstract given by Stevens of the Thoresby manuscript, it would appear that the latter contains practically the same wording as the Jackson manuscript. It is not impossible that the latter is a 17th century copy of Thoresby's manuscript, or an independent copy of an earlier original, from which the Bodleian and Thoresby's manuscripts were also derived. However, in Bohn's edition of Dugdale vol v, pp 535-538 are given ten deeds relating to Kirkstall with the explanation "in the possession of Ralph Thoresby of Leeds Esq." It is not stated whether these deeds were to be found in the manuscript history. Of these deeds so quoted only two are to be found in the list of deeds in the Jackson manuscript, which is as follows: 1. A letter from brother Hugh, abbot of Kirkstall to the convent of the same name, dated on the morrow of the Feast of Saint Martin (Nov 12th) 1287, dealing with the monetary difficulties of the abbey, and containing (a) a writ of Edward I. (b) A writ of Edward I. Oct 16th 1287; addressed to John, bishop of Ely, Treasurer. (c) A covenant, Saturday after the Feast of Saint Luke the Evangelist (Oct 18th) 1287 between Abbot Hugh of Kirkstall and Henry de Lacy Earl of Lincoln. * (d) Confirmation, Oct 27th 1287. (e) Writing obligatory from Henry de Lacy, Earl of Lincoln and Constable of Chester to the abbot and convent of Kirkstall Oct 28th 1287. (f) Another writing obligatory of the same day. 2. State of the monastery on Sunday before the Feast of Saint Margaret (July 20th) 1301. 3.* Protection from Henry III, 16th November 1219. 4. Delivery by Edward I of the guardianship of Kirkstall to Henry de Lacy 20th November 1275. (Those marked with an asterisk are quoted in Bohn's Dugdale.)—(3) In Whitaker's "History of Craven" pp 76-83 is an account of the history of Kirkstall. Dr. Whitaker drew his material from Dugdale, that is, from the Bodleian manuscript which he quotes until the death of Alexander the first abbot, see "History of Craven" p 79, note 2, "Chron de Kirkstall. The style of one monk is so like that of another, that I am unable to distinguish where Serlo's narrative ends and that of his continuer begins. I have hitherto been constrained to write from the printed narrative Mon. Ang. vol i, p 854, etc; but from this period Dugdale and Dodsworth began to abridge their account: I shall therefore confine myself, for the future, principally to particulars which they have omitted, after premising that I write from a copy of the Chronicle of Kirkstall among the Townley MSS." Whitaker gives a very interesting translation of the two letters of Hugh de Grimston and John Birdsall, omitting the legal documents, which he confesses himself unable to understand. As far as one can judge from extracts the Jackson manuscript is a copy of either Thoresby's or the Townley manuscript, or of some original common to both, though it is possible that Hugh de Grimston's letter is given here in more detail than in either of these sources. "Drake" appears to have been a lawyer, and the manuscript appears to have come into the possession of the late Mr. Arthur Jackson, together with several other documents, dating from the 16th to the 18th centuries and relating to certain tithes from Barnoldswick and Gilkirk, which formerly belonged to Kirkstall Abbey.

1615 June 10th to 1677 January 15th. Sheffield Constables Accounts (Engl.) This is a small folio paper book 8×12, consisting of forty-one leaves, some of which are blank. The handwritings are of a legal type and almost invariably clear. At the head of each account appears "the charge," consisting of receipts from "Sessments," and occasionally from "Towne Rentes" and other sources. On the same sheet follows the expenditure "Whereof disbursed by the said Constables." Many of the items of expenditure appear year by year and are of little importance, but there are numerous entries which throw an interesting light upon Sheffield life and customs in the 17th century. The movements of troops in the Civil War are noted as far as they affected Sheffield, and there are echoes of political events. The following extracts may give some idea of the contents:—

909 (1618) October 7th, in the 16th year of James I. Court Rolls (Lat.) of the manor of Conesburgh. These rolls consist of two vellum sheets 8×29, stitched together at the head, and written over on sides. The following courts are recorded:—(1) Court Leet of the Right Hon Henry Carey knight, Lord Hunsdon 7th October 16 James I.—(2) Court Baron of 16th November 16 James I.—(3) Court Leet with View of Frankpledge 8th April 17 James I.—(4) Court Baron 15th April 17 James I.—(5) Court Baron 31st August 17 James I.—(6) Court Baron 21st September 17 James I. The Courts Leet were occupied with ameracements upon the tenants for various petty offences. The jurisdiction of the lord seems to have extended among other places over Conisborough, Bramley, Harthill, Braithwell, Cusworth, Clifton, Warmsworth, Ravensfield, Cresbrook, Dalton, Baronbrough. Among the tenants of the manor were people of some substance. Sir Samuel Salstonstall knight (3s 4d), Sir Robert Swifte knight (3s 4d), Leonard Wraye esquire (2s), Gervase Copley (12d), Robert Tirrell esquire, Gervase Westall gentleman (2s 6d), Nathaniel Eire gentleman (12d), Richard Mounteney gentleman (12d), William Goodman gentleman (12d), were all fined for default of suit of court. A common offence among the holders of strips in the common fields was that of allowing their hedges to fall into disrepair, so that the cattle wandered upon their neighbours' land. Others paid fines for breaking the assize of bread and beer, keeping unauthorized bowling-greens, "rating their hempe" in running water (cannabum maccervit), blocking up footpaths, neglecting to dig ditches at the end of selions, overburdening the common with sheep, keeping and selling tobacco contrary to the law, petty assaults, taking firewood, and refusing to throw open their holdings for pasture after Lammas. The Courts Baron were occupied with surrenders and admittances, which appear under number 909, i-xii, among the deeds and charters.

1625 "A Rentall of the King's rents for the high Peake in the right of his Dutchie of Lancaster ano. dni. 1625." This is a manuscript book of 16 paper folios, bound in a portion of a vellum indenture. The first folio contains an account of "palfrie silver" due from the various towns and villages in the honour. The next twelve folios contain details of rents due from the inhabitants of the several places. The last three folios are filled with miscellaneous items such as "Half Yeare Rents, Herbage, Milnes, Woodland," etc. The whole MS. is of considerable interest, as it supplies a list of inhabitants of the honour of the High Peak, and gives many details of the lands held by them. Payments are noted as coming from "turves and turveries, coalepits, liberties, pinfolds, comon silver, sergenties, intackes, encrochments, weistes," copies (of court roll) and leases. Among other items it is recorded that 10s. was paid by "The Earle of Shresburie for prehiminence and prehemtion."

1636 November 3rd to 1690-1 March 19th. The Hope Old Book (Lat. and Engl.). This is a small folio court book of the manor of Hope, of 50 paper sheets 8 × 12, bound in thin vellum. Altogether twenty-one courts are recorded, of which the first three are described as "Little Courts," while the rest are named either "Courts Baron" or "Great Courts Baron," one being described as a "Little Court Baron." Probably the Little Courts, Courts Baron and the Little Court Baron refer to the same Court namely the Little Court Baron. The Great Courts Baron may have been more important assemblies; but in any case the same customary tenants appear as jurors in both classes of courts, and the business transacted is of the same character. It consisted mainly of transfers of land by surrenders and admittances, admittances on inheritance, and admittances on lease. The land which thus changed hands is definitely stated to be copyhold in about half the entries. In almost every case a fine was taken, and heriots of "the second best animal" are enrolled wherever the jurors presented the death of a tenant and the succession of his heir, even when the lands are not described as copyhold. The word "relief," generally used under such circumstances in the case of freehold lands, is nowhere mentioned in this court book. Both Great and Little Courts Baron dealt equally with copyhold land. There is no trace of any leet jurisdiction, and the few amercements imposed are as a rule for default of suit of court. In one Great Court Baron in 1670 an offender was amerced for obstructing a path and another for breaking the pound. As regards civil jurisdiction, a common recovery is recorded at a Little Court of 1638, and at the same court a certain Grace Heathcote appeared as plaintiff in five pleas of dower, but no pleadings or result are recorded. In 1649, however, Elizabeth Froggatt brought forward a plea of dower, "unde nihil habet," and the jury granted to her a third part of the messuages, lands and tenements of her late husband Thomas Bockinge. From 1636 to 1670 "John Gell esquire" is noted as lord of the manor. After that the name appears as "John Gell Barronet." In 1679 "Philip Gell esquire" appears at the head of the entries, and from 1689 to the end "Philip Gell Barronet." Among the jurors of the courts from time to time are the following: Ottwell Smith, Adam Eyre, Adam Balgie, John Parramore, Thomas Bockinge, Nicholas Grant, John Briddocke, Thomas Slacke, Robert Heywood, George Marshall, Antony Ashton, Robert Middleton, Mark Trickitt, John Hadfeild, Richard Hallum, Robert Hall, John Burdekin, John Hardie, Edmund Balgie gentleman, Thomas Martyn, Henry Hoult, Ellis Yellott, John Bacon, Francis Frost, William Johnson, Nicholas Staley, John Bennett, Robert Bray, Edward Breadhurst, Nathan Woodroffe, Martin Bradocke, Thomas Stephenson, Thomas Heathcote, Francis Daniel, Thomas Hollott, Richard Morton, Roger Ray, Henry Furnis, John Dernelley, Edward Robotham, Thomas Kirke, and many others with the same surnames. The court book gives a considerable amount of information about the descents of the tenants, and in many cases the metes and bounds of their holdings are minutely described. It is evident that much of the land in the neighbourhood was still unenclosed. Thus in 1667 there is an entry. "Item That the Townefeilds within Hope and belongeinge to this Mannour shalbe yearely stinted and kept in, untill the one & thirtieth day of October yearly, and the homage doe elect nominate and appoynt Roberte Bockinge, Thomas Eyre, Roberte Bray, and John Hadfeild to be overseers and stinters of the same for this yeare next ensueinge. And it is Ordered That every person that shall breake the stinte soe to be made shall forfeit and pay to the lord of this mannour for every horse six shipyings (sic) and eightpence for every neate beaste, or five sheepe three shillings foure pence that he or they shall have or put therein above such stinte for every offence." The parcels of land are usually of an acre or a half acre lying severally in the fields, and there are frequent references to butts, selions, headlands, outfalls, furlongs, acres and other terms characteristic of the old land system. Where transfers of smaller portions took place they were of one to three rods in various meadows, crofts, and closes, though some rods lay separately in the arable fields. Occasionally "common of pasture" is mentioned as accompanying such conveyances, though it was not thought necessary to state the number of animals which this right covered. Especially interesting are the field-names and place-names, which preserve many obsolete rural words, and which are well worthy of study by local antiquaries. Generally speaking the fines exacted by the lords on admittances and inheritances appear to be moderate, considering that copyhold lands, of as much as three acres, are mentioned as paying only two or three pence rent per annum to the lord in 1636; a cottage and lands 2s 6d in 1638; twelve several rods of land 4s in 1638; a messuage and an oxgang of land 2s 10½d in 1659; a messuage, three closes and half an acre of land 2s 2d. Among the customary tenants were men of some substance in the district: Eyre, Foljambe, Balguy, Gascoigne, Borrowe, Bagshawe etc.

A pain was laid on Simon Webster, "that if he fetch any more earth, sand or mortar out of Nether Hallam he shall forfeit and pay to the Lord of the Manor 01 : 19 : 11," and another on Joseph Barnes "that unless he make a Wall betwixt the Highway and Rowell Bridge Wheel, before the tenth day of July next, he shall forfeit and pay to the Lord of the Mannor... .. 01 : 19 : 11"

The verdict was signed by the jurors: Josa Sanderson, Wm Haworth, Willom Jarvis, Robert Kirk, John Green, John Beadson, Nathan Morton, Edwrd Nichols, John Fisher, George Ibbottson, Robert Armfield, John Ashforth, Edward Lockwood. Paper: double sheet of folio.

FRAGMENTS OF BREVIARIES AND ILLUMINATED MSS.

Fragment of a Breviary (Lat.) consisting of two leaves of vellum, 9×16, with double columns of thirty-five lines, written in square English minuscules, in a fifteenth century hand. The ornamental initial letters are in blue with lace work and flourishes in red ink, extending down the columns. The two leaves were evidently used as a cover for documents, for there is a note at the foot of one page, "Wills proved in the Archdeaonry of Stowe A.D. 1572, 1573 and 1574." On the other page, a bond from Thomas Tompsonne of Lincoln Tailor to Thomas Tailor of the same is written at the foot.

- 912 Fragment of a Manuscript Book (Lat.) consisting of four leaves of vellum $9\frac{1}{2} \times 14$, with double columns of twenty-seven lines on each page, with glosses in all the margins. The writing is in small minuscules of an Italian character, and appears to belong to the late fourteenth century. There are ornamental initial letters in red, blue and gold. The book is a treatise on ecclesiastical or canon law.
- 913 Fragment of a Manuscript Book (Lat.) consisting of six leaves of vellum 9×12 , with double columns of fifty-seven lines. The writing is in a small minuscule and of a dull untidy type, probably of the early or middle fourteenth century. Initial letters are in blue, with leaf-ornamentation in the loops and flourishes in red ink. The topics treated are: witnesses, betrothals, marriages, the right of clergy and monks to engage in secular business, regular clergy, and those taking the veil, etc. In the margin are a few pen-sketches of the heads of friars and monks, hooded and showing the tonsure.
- 914 Fragment of a Manuscript Book (Lat.), consisting of ten leaves of vellum approximately 12×16 , with double columns of fifty-four lines on each page, and a gloss running round the margins. The writing is in large clear minuscules and appears to belong to the late thirteenth century. The initial letters are simply designed, in red and blue, without marginal ornamentation. Notes in a later hand are found in the margins and numerous sketches of heads. The book is evidently a statement of canon law. Among the topics treated are the following: namely, "What a man ought to know who is to be ordained bishop"; "Unlearned men and vicious, seeking worldly gain ought not to be ordained bishops"; "Men of ill fame cannot accuse men of good fame"; "A heretic can bear witness against a heretic." There are frequent quotations from Eusebius, Gregory, Augustine, Gelasius, and the Canons of Councils.
- 915 Two leaves from a Church Service Book (Lat.) with music, vellum 9×12 . As the leaves are cut at the head, it is impossible to give the number of lines. The initial letters are plainly written in red and blue. From the late character of the writing the MS. appears to belong to the late fifteenth or early sixteenth century.
- 916 (a) Fragment of a Manuscript Book (Lat.), consisting of two leaves of faintly lined vellum $7 \times 9\frac{1}{2}$, with a single column of thirty-three lines on each page. The writing is a very clear rounded type of bookhand, with small capital letters dotted with red, and appears to belong to the late thirteenth century. The argument deals with oaths, and a distinction is drawn between innocent and guilty oaths, enforced by quotations from Saint Augustine.—(b) A similar fragment of two leaves of unlined vellum of the same size and number of lines, and in the same handwriting. There are two larger capitals in blue and red. The argument concerns the distinction between heresy and schism, and may have been, together with (a), part of a collection of treatises on canon law.

- 917 Fragment of a Manuscript Book (Lat.), consisting of two leaves of lined vellum 8×12 , with a double column of forty-three lines each on the page. The writing is in a clear, small and fairly regular minuscule in very black ink. The capital letters are large with graceful lines in the loops, and an ornamentation of flowing lines is continued above and below the letter at the side of the column. The stem of the “t” is not continued above the cross, and the upper loop of the “a” is generally left open. Possibly a MS. of the middle thirteenth century. The argument proceeds along lines of mediæval logic, and deals in general with the seven mortal sins, and in particular with the various forms of pride and their veniality.
- 918 (a) Small fragment of a Manuscript Book (Lat.), vellum approximately 4×12 , with sixty imperfect lines of writing on each side. The handwriting is a neat and clear minuscule, and the letters are of an angular type. It appears to be of the late fourteenth century. The argument concerns the nature of angels.—(b) Small fragment of a Manuscript Book (Lat.), vellum approximately 4×12 , with fifteen lines in each of two columns on both sides. The handwriting is clear and moderately rounded, and is probably of the fourteenth century. The sinfulness of certain actions is discussed.

A Volume 7½×10, bound in half leather boards, entitled "Genealogical Memoranda—Yorkshire"; containing several hundred pedigrees of Sheffield and district, with index at the beginning; the handwriting is that of William Swift and many autograph letters and slips have been interleaved. The volume is of great interest to many Sheffield families. - 1272 A Parcel 19×12×6 brown paper, containing the corrected proof sheets of Hunter's "Hallamshire" second edition by Dr. Gatty. Notes: William Swift assisted Dr. Gatty in preparing this edition for the press and possibly these proof sheets came from him.

- 1273 A Parcel $10 \times 14 \times 2$, brown paper, containing several hundred prints of a pen and ink sketch of old Haslebarrow Hall Norton. Notes: these appear to have been printed in anticipation of some work on Norton, which they were to illustrate.
- 1286 A Box containing twenty-three letters from Thomas Bright, of Bads-worth, to William Elmsall, of Thornhill, near Huddersfield, relating to the sale of Edlington Woods (near Doncaster); also as to a pack of foxhounds and shooting on the moors.
- 1126 Rough Notes of William Swift from the Wales parish registers on sheets of paper of various sizes stitched together, with a parchment front page. These notes are too rough to be of much use, but Swift evidently thought they were worth preserving; they measure $9 \times 11\frac{1}{2}$.
- 1169 Ordnance Survey of Sheffield, 1853; consisting of thirty-six sheets (scale five feet to a mile), bound in half leather boards 20×27 ; all in good condition, and entitled on the edge of cover "Atlas."
- 1055 A Volume 14×19 , in leather boards, entitled "Walton Hall" from which many pages have been cut, and loose sheets have been inserted. The book is printed for accounts, treble column, and the pages removed evidently were the accounts of Walton Hall. The sheets inserted contain pedigrees of Cokayne of Ashburne co Derby; Cokayne of Middleton juxta Youlgrave; De Arderne, Savage, Ednesoure, Herthill of Herthill, Middleton juxta Youlgrave and Meynell; Gregson of Turndich parish of Duffield; Bradburne of Bradburne; Shallcross of Shallcross; Longsdon of Little Longsdon; Dethick of Newhall co Derby; and Zouche; with blazon of arms.
- 1055 (a) A Volume $6\frac{1}{2} \times 8$, bound in vellum, containing, in manuscript, extensive particulars of the institutions to benefices in the diocese of York, with a list of the benefices, their value, the names of the incumbents and patrons, with the date of institution. The names of the clergy, who were sufferers and had their livings sequestrated in 1642, in the Archdeaconry of the West Riding. An account of the Archbishops of York from 622 to 1724. Livings in the gift of the Lord Chancellor in the various English Counties. History of Paulinus, first Archbishop of York. Valuation of all livings within the diocese of York (and elsewhere) not exceeding £50 per annum. Notes: this volume was purchased for the late Mr. Arthur Jackson, at the sale of the Phillipps Collection 1895; and as lot 1275, it was described as above in the sale catalogue.

- 1094 A Volume 8×13 , bound in leather, containing the Rules and Regulations of the News Room, adjoining the old church yard in Sheffield, 30th October 1809; with the signatures of nearly two hundred subscribers.
- 1095a A Volume $8\frac{1}{2} \times 13$, bound in vellum, containing full copies in manuscript of deeds and wills of the 18th century, relating to Sheffield, Staveley, Beighton, Bradfield, Snigg Hill (Sheffield), West Bar (Sheffield), Wombwell, Attercliffe, Hayton co Notts, Dixon Lane (Sheffield), Aston Hall, Cold Aston and Chelsea.
- 1096 A Volume $6 \times 8\frac{1}{2}$, bound in vellum; containing accounts of several Highway Surveyors for the Hamlet of Dore, with many signatures of overseers, etc. 1770-1828.
- 1096a A Volume $9 \times 11\frac{1}{2}$, bound in leather, containing autograph signatures and letters; also engravings and newspaper cuttings. Many loose papers taken from this album are in a box, also bearing the number 1096a and fully endorsed.
- 1097 A Volume $7\frac{1}{4} \times 9\frac{1}{2}$, bound in brown leather; containing manuscript notes, in a good hand-writing, headed "Grammar." On the title page are written the names Jonathan Banks and John Lowther; and on the last page, in pencil, Mr Abraham, Holy Green House, Sheffield.
- 1099 A Volume 8×10 , bound in vellum, entitled "Precedent Book," containing precedents (without names of persons or places) of legal documents, fair copied in manuscript; probably by some law student.
- 1101 A Volume $6\frac{1}{2} \times 8$, bound in vellum boards, entitled on the first page "Castleton Writings Copied"; containing extracts in manuscript from 17th and early 18th century charters and writings, in various ownerships. The book is paged to 60, and there is an index at the beginning. The book is full of information relating to the Castleton district.
- 1102 A Volume $8 \times 9\frac{1}{2}$, bound in half leather boards, entitled on the first page "Collectanea Vivorum et Mortuorum a Gulielmo Swift." This appears to have been a notebook of William Swift, in which he entered in alphabetical order the names, addresses, ages, and dates of death or burial of local people, probably these were entered up from the daily papers. They should be of great use to genealogists.
- 1103 A Volume 8×10 , bound in half leather boards, entitled "Deeds and Church Notes Yorkshire." These notes are in the handwriting of William Swift; the book is paged to 913, but very little of it has been used and the notes are scattered throughout the pages; there is no index. Notes: this volume has been re-bound since it came to the Library, and the title on the old cover has been reproduced.

- 1105 A Volume 8×10, bound in half leather boards, entitled “Deeds & Church Notes—Derbyshire.” This volume contains 915 folios, and there is no index; but on the first page there is some indication of the pages at which certain notes begin; the notes are in the handwriting of William Swift, and are scattered throughout the book, among many blank pages.
- 1106 (i) Three Volumes each 5×8, bound in vellum boards with clasp; containing
 (ii) an index to the births in Ecclesall Bierlow 1837 to 1861, in the hand-
 (iii) writing of William Swift.
- 1107 (i) Two Volumes each 5×8, bound in vellum boards with clasp; containing
 (ii) an index to the deaths in Ecclesall Bierlow 1837 to 1865, in the handwriting of William Swift.
- 1111 A Volume 8×12, bound in tooled leather boards; containing old legal precedents and law forms, including, at page 273, a copy of a grant for 1000 years of lands for the better endowment of Chesterfield School. The book is paged up to 408; then follow “Observations”; a case for counsel to advise with his opinion at foot (28 May 1760); copy will and codicil of Henry Pelham (1748-1751). The precedents are copied in a beautiful hand by, presumably, a lawyer or law student, and there is an index to the precedents at the end of the book. On the front page the following names have been written in various hands viz: Thomas Wigley, Jonathan Lee, Chesterfield and Thomas Higley.
- 1112 A Volume 8½×13, bound in rough leather boards; containing copies in manuscript of law precedents and forms, 18th century, and there is no index; some of the precedents seem to be copies of deeds relating to Sheffield people, with recitals of wills, etc., and if they can be relied on as true copies, the information they contain is of value and should be examined by genealogists. The names of counsel who approved the drafts appear, and their opinions are in some cases given.
- 1113 A Volume 8×10, bound in vellum boards, entitled “Wills”; containing, Part I, of some original abstracts of wills, co York, by William Paver, printed by John I'Anson Brusby printer of Devonshire Terrace, Glossop Road, Sheffield 1830; this has been bound in a notebook of William Swift, containing further abstracts of wills in manuscript, and a cutting from The Athenæum, 22nd January 1842, with a full copy of the will of Sir Francis Chantry; another of William Cobbett M.P.; there is no index.

- 1114 A Volume $7\frac{1}{2} \times 9$, bound in paper boards, entitled "Derbyshire Extracts from Gents Mag by Swift." William Swift had not got far with this work, but these notes would be useful in compiling Derbyshire genealogies.
- 1115 A Volume $8\frac{1}{2} \times 13$, bound in half leather boards, entitled "Collections for a History of Staveley"; which William Swift evidently contemplated writing, but this book contains nothing beyond the title page and an illuminated heading, for the "Introductory Chapter to Section I."
- 1117 A Volume $8 \times 12\frac{1}{2}$, with soft paper cover; containing pedigrees of Waterhouse (with ex libris of Henry Waterhouse), and several articles on Sheffield Trades, the front page of which is entitled "Origin of the principal Trades in Sheffield, being extracts from the Historical and Traditional account of the town and Vicinage, written and compiled by Charles Dixon; to Richard Bailey esq, Castle Dyke, November 22nd 1850." This volume is in the handwriting of William Swift.
- 1118 A Volume $8 \times 12\frac{1}{2}$, bound in paper boards; containing manuscript notes on family matters by Edward Pryme; and many pages of notes on the Bright family of Whirlow and Greystones.
- 1121 A Volume 8×13 , bound in paper boards, entitled on the first page, "Select Vestry Book Dore. 1825"; containing two pages of minutes of a ratepayers' meeting, followed by the Constable's Accounts to 1837.
- 1122 A Volume 8×13 , bound in paper boards, entitled "Poor Law Settlements Examinations from 193 to 239 Staveley." This book contains useful information for genealogists; full particulars are given of settlers coming from all parts to settle in Staveley, early 19th century, with their places of origin, family history and early life.
- 1123 A Volume $11 \times 13\frac{1}{2}$, bound in cardboard; containing William Swift's very rough notes from the registers of Laughton en le Morthen. They cover many pages.
- 1125 A Volume $7\frac{1}{2} \times 9\frac{1}{2}$, bound in paper boards, entitled "Parish Register Extracts, mostly made by Thos Norris Ince from Various Derbyshire Registers"; see number 1132.
- 1127 A Volume $8\frac{1}{2} \times 13$, bound in vellum boards (half of the back missing), entitled on the first page "Musæ Sheffieldienses 1737"; containing fair copies of exercises in Latin elegiacs and hexameters, some of which are signed respectively by Geo Steer, Thos Younge, George Ibotson, Dan^l.

Boote, W Osborne, Thos Cawthorne, who may have been scholars at the Sheffield Grammar School. The Latin verses are followed by rent accounts.

- 1128 A Volume $7\frac{1}{2} \times 8$, bound in vellum boards; containing lists of rectors, vicars, curates, ministers, mayors, aldermen, town clerks, masters of grammar schools, guilds and chantries in Derbyshire; with an index on the first page.
- 1129 A Volume, $8 \times 8\frac{1}{2}$ bound in half leather; containing transcriptions, in the handwriting of William Swift, relating to churches, monasteries, chantries within the deanery of Chesterfield; extracts from Bacon's "Thesaurus" 1786, relating to the same deanery, with interleaved notes in the handwriting of Hunter. The first page purports to be an index.
- 1130 A Volume $7\frac{1}{2} \times 9\frac{1}{2}$, bound in paper boards; containing William Swift's rough notes on the Chesterfield parish registers. Many pages are loose.
- 1131 A Volume 7×8 , bound in paper boards, entitled "Deanery of High Peak"; containing many church notes by William Swift, with an index at the first page.
- 1132 A Volume 7×8 , bound in paper boards; containing what appears to be a copy of parts of the Sheffield parish registers, and full extracts therefrom. One section relating to the family of Fox is said to have been sent by Mr. Hunter to Mr. Ince. This volume should be of great use to local genealogists. Notes: Mr. Ince was of Wirksworth, see number 1125.
- 1133 A Volume $7\frac{1}{2} \times 9\frac{1}{2}$, bound in limp paper, entitled "A few notes concerning the early introduction and progress of Wesleyan Methodism in Chesterfield collected by W.S." (William Swift).
- 1134 A Volume $6\frac{1}{2} \times 8$, bound in paper boards, entitled on the cover "Derbyshire Parish Registers"; containing notes in the handwriting of William Swift, with extracts from many Derbyshire parish registers.
- 1138 A Volume 8×9 , bound in tooled leather, entitled "North Derbyshire." This volume contains the manuscript of William Swift for a series of articles on North Derbyshire, and interleaved are printed leaves and engravings, with some notes in another hand. The frontispiece gives the publisher's name—J Roberts, Chesterfield.

- 1139 A Volume $7\frac{1}{2} \times 9\frac{1}{2}$, bound in paper boards, entitled on the cover "Swifts Derbyshire, Chesterfield etc"; containing many extracts from some parish register (probably Chesterfield), as to the families of Webster and Dale.

- 1220 A Volume, thirty four pages 4×5 , bound in paper boards, entitled "Instructions for the use of The Children in a school of Industry." Printed by H. Bradley, 1807. Inside the cover is written the name "Mary Staniforth June 16th 1807."
- 1208 A Volume $5\frac{3}{4} \times 8\frac{1}{2}$, bound in red cloth boards; entitled "The Mercer Chronicle," by an Irish Sennachy. Printed in London, by Woodfall & Kinder, 1866.
- 1295 A Volume 10×15 , bound in half calf, containing 147 hand-ruled plans of the seats and boxes in the Sheffield Theatre, from 30th September 1807 to 20th January 1826, with names of subscribers for seats, plays performed, and some of the actors engaged. There is a list of proprietors of the theatre at the end of the volume.
- 1296 A Volume $10\frac{1}{2} \times 16\frac{1}{2}$, bound in calf, containing "Proceedings of the Pitt Club established in Sheffield in the year 1810." This is a minute book of the club; the minutes only cover a few pages up to 28th May 1819. On the first page are the names of the members and presidents, with printed notices of meetings, etc.
- 1297 A Volume 5×8 , bound in black leather, containing printed "Minutes made at the Meetings of the principal Iron Masters in the Counties of York and Derby at Sheffield August 11th 1799, and at Barnsley March 6th 1800." Printed by R. Sedgwick of Bradford 1800, with manuscript list of members of The Association of Iron Masters, and further minutes in manuscript up to 1828.

- 1298 A Volume $14\frac{1}{2} \times 9$, with blue paper cover, containing "A set of fifty New and Correct Maps of England and Wales," showing the main roads and cross-roads for travellers, by Herman Moll, of Devereux Court, Strand, London, 1724.
- 1302 Late 15th or early 16th century. A Medical Miscellany (Lat.). This is a folio volume of paper, in a modern binding, containing 148 leaves, of which the first 72 form a separate section with an index. The next 8 pages deal with the relation of the stars to health, while the last portion of the book, among other matters, discusses the physical effects of various foods, herbs, and drugs. Hippocrates, the Ptolemies, John de Tholeto, John Picard, physician of Philip of France; Richard de Anglia, and other writers are quoted. As a whole the book shows the curious medley of astrology, superstition, traditional rules, error, and experience which constituted the medical art of the Middle Ages. The book begins with a dissertation on the advantages and disadvantages of phlebotomy and laxatives during the different quarters of the moon. We are told on the authority of Haly, commentator of "Phtholomy," that in the first and third quarters of the moon the "humours" of the body are effluent, and may be compared to a rising river, and accordingly laxatives and blood-letting were useful, whereas in the second and fourth quarters the humours were reflux, and these remedies were inexpedient. Surgeons must also be careful not to use the knife, when the moon was in the particular sign which denoted the ailing member, since the patient would be imperilled by too great a "flux," which would prevent the wound from healing. A warning example is given of a patient who was bled at such an inauspicious period, and showing no sign but a swollen arm, incontinently died—a result which, from the modern point of view, is not so surprising as that anyone survived the ancient surgery. Next follows a list of the planets with their qualities, Saturn being described as malevolent, cold, unfruitful, and destructive of life, while Venus was warm, humid, and favourable. The days of the lunar month are then given, from which it appears that the 6th was a good day for hunting or going to war, and that children born then were strong and full of vitality; but it was not a good day for marrying or invalids, no one ought to tell others of dreams dreamed on that day, and thefts and treasons were sure to be found out. On the contrary the 14th day was good for all purposes, apparently including the last two activities. The effect of various simples is described in various diseases, and a large number of prescriptions, composed of astonishing and unpleasant ingredients, is given. No disease seems to have been regarded as beyond remedy, even "iliac passion," familiar to-day under the name of appendicitis, having its appropriate prescription. Other sections deal with astrolabes, clisters, aqua vitæ, oils, experimental medicine, the value of snake's blood as a curative, the correct diet for preserving health, and the whole science of blood-letting. This last practice, which remained in favour with the medical fraternity till within living memory, seems to have been regarded as invaluable in almost every case, either alone or in combination with dosing. The details of its application, as recorded in the MS., help to explain the abnormally high death rate of the Middle Ages, and the difficulty then experienced in growing old. Here and there, however, are common sense maxims, as, for instance, when abstinence is recommended for digestive troubles, and exercise and work for torpid livers and spleens. Apparently the mediaeval doctor considered cosmetics within the range of his art, for a chapter is headed: "Tractatus de ornatu faciei—de ornatu mulierum," and here the author strikes a modern note in his insistence on the value of bathing and clean water, which, as a rule, were not regarded with high esteem by our forefathers . . . "faciem mulieris hoc modo ornabis in primo abluat eam optime cum sapone Gallico et aqua tepida." Instructions follow for rendering the hair thick, black, and glossy. Towards the end of the book there are several folios containing lists of medicaments, and, throughout, the pages have been annotated industriously by a contemporary hand, many additional prescriptions being added. Apart from the special medical interest of this curious volume, it would appear to be well worthy of close study from the point of view of philology. It is to be hoped that some student with special qualifications in this subject will undertake its examination.

- 1289 A photograph of The Tutbury Horn. A feudal horn described by Dr. J. Charles Cox in the Journal of the Derbyshire Archæological Society Vol VIII, as by far the most interesting relic of its kind in England. It belongs to the Bagshawe Family, of Ford Hall, Chapel-en-le-Frith; and by it the owner appoints the coroner for the part of Derbyshire which includes the High Peak. It consists of an oxhorn, mounted silver gilt, with black silk belt and silver gilt buckles; the badge bears the arms of John o' Gaunt impaling Feriers. It dates from Danish or Anglo-Saxon times. There are several prints of this photograph in the collection.

N.B.—The Jackson Collection contains, in addition to the items above catalogued, very many loose papers and rough notes, collected or made by William Swift and others. These have been classified to some extent, and placed in boxes, endorsed "Swift's Papers" with some general indication of their contents. Though they cannot conveniently be catalogued, they should not be overlooked. There are also several bundles of lawyers' drafts and abstracts, printed plans and particulars, a few maps, both printed and manuscript, and some printed public notices, all of local interest. These have been placed in boxes and guard books, and can be produced for examination at the Reference Library.
